2 suspected cases of encephalitis reported in county

by KAREN BLECHA

Two suspected cases of encephalitis have been reported in suburban Cook County, but spokesmen at hospitals in the Northwest suburbs said Tuesday that no one has been hospitalized here with the disease.

Encephalitis, the sleeping sickness carried by mosquitos, is suspected as the cause of death of two persons in southern Illinois and of an 1-year-old Oak Park man who died Aug. 17. The other suspected case in Cook County is an 8-year-old Evanston girl who has recovered.

So far 13 suspected cases of the disease, including the two in Cook County, have been reported in Illinois. Three cases in Decatur, Flora and Coles County have been confirmed by laboratory tests.

THE DISEASE IS now prevalent in the St. Louis area and Illinois Dept. of Public Health officials said Tuesday there is "a distinct possibility" it could become an epidemic in southern Illinois.

The department issued a warning to all communities south of a line running from Charleston to Pittsfield, encouraging them to start mosquito-control programs.

Spokesmen at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village; Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge; Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, and Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines reported no recent cases of the disease.

The virus, which causes swelling of the brain, is transmitted by mosquitos which pick up the virus from birds.

A state health department spokesman said the Evanston girl, who showed symptoms of the disease Aug. 17, traveled to Missouri shortly before becoming ill. However, Dr. R. J. Martin, epidemiologist for the department, said preliminary information showed the Oak Park man had not been outside the area for 30 days before the illness.

Suspected cases have been reported in Will, Jefferson, Clay, Richland, Cumberland, Marion, Randolph and Madison counties. The two fatalities suspected to have been caused Downstate by the disease are a 55-year-old man in Wayne County and an 83-year-old man in Silvis, Rock Island County.

DR. COLETTE Rasmussen of the Cook County Dept. of Public Health, said no encephalitis cases have been confirmed in county suburbs and said she doubted the Oak Park man died from the disease. She said it is too late to tell because blood tests must be taken while the victim is alive to confirm the diagnosis.

"There is a lot of alarm about this and it is totally useless," she said. "There is no need to panic. Make no mistake, though, we have the right kind of mosquitos here. We just don't seem to have the right kind of birds." The virus is carried by the northern house mosquito.

Dr. Rasmussen said there is no medication for the disease which must be allowed to run its course. Early symptoms are severe headache, stiff neck and disorientation. She said there are varieties of encephalitis and the disease can be brought on by measles and influenza as well as mosquitos.

The National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta reports there are two strains of encephalitis, the California and St. Louis strains. A spokesman said the disease is prevalent in North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota as well as St. Louis.

Since Aug. 15, 31 cases of encephalitis have been confirmed and 42 others have been classified as probable cases, reports the center. Fourteen of those were fatalities, according to the center.

Dist. 21 pact talks stymied

by MARILYN McDONALD

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 board negotiators have declared an impasse in contract talks just three days before teachers are scheduled to begin the new school year Friday.

Talks broke down after a nine-hour negotiating session early Tuesday morning. Board members declared the impasse after teachers rejected a final 10 per cent increase in the current financial package. That offer would raise the amount spent on full-time teacher salaries and benefits from $4,708,000 to $5,179,680. Teachers requested a 15 per cent raise in the financial package.

"We have moved a great deal toward the board over the last three months, but had to refuse what they called their final offer because it is a losing proposition for us," said Ed Searing, teacher union president.

"It included a bare 3 per cent increase in base pay plus an inexpensive increase in fringe benefits. Over the past four years, we have taken approximately a 19 per cent pay cut due to the effects of inflation," he said, quoting a study done of Dist. 21 pay scales by the Illinois Education Assn. teacher union. The teachers' salary scale in Dist. 21 now ranged from $9,000 to $17,010.

JOHN BARGER, Dist. 21 associate superintendent and spokesman for the board bargaining team, said the board usually grants a total money increase to be distributed by the teacher union between increased salaries and increased fringe benefits. Barger said the board team has agreed to include new benefits of life and dental insurance this year.

Barger said the board also made concessions in the following areas since negotiations began in April:

- The right for summer school salaries to be negotiated and a graduated increase in summer school salaries. Summer school salaries were not previously negotiated.
- An extra personal leave day to be taken at the teacher's discretion. Teachers previously had just one personal leave day.
- Increased tuition reimbursement for graduate studies. The district will now pay $20 per semester hour of graduate credit, compared to $15 per semester hour, previously.
- A system for reduction in the number of teachers, should it be needed. These guidelines, which determine the order in which teachers would be laid off if the district shrinks in size, are new contract items.
- A sick leave bank program. Teachers can donate one unused sick day per year to a common bank, available to all teachers who use up their personal accumulated sick leave.

Teachers have given up "significant items" during the negotiations process, said Hugh Brady, a teacher negotiator. Among their concessions are:

- Elimination of the fact-finding process in impasse procedure. If negotiations go to impasse, a mediator is called in. If mediation fails to solve the impasse, a fact-finder is then called in to make public the facts of

Crossing guard shortage looms as school nears

The Village of Arlington Heights is faced with a shortage of crossing guards with school scheduled to open within a week.

Arlington Heights Police Sgt. Jack Weber said there are at least two vacancies for crossing guards, and there could be more if the number of returning guards falls below expectations.

"We've advertised in the newspaper, contacted different groups and clubs, senior citizens organizations . . . I can only conclude that people aren't willing to work for $3 an hour if it means cutting up their day," Weber said.

Guards work an average of three hours every school day. Twelve school crossings are patroled in the village generally between the hours of 8-9 a.m., 11:30 a.m.-1:15 p.m. and 2:45 - 3:30 p.m. Not all guards work all three shifts.

In addition to the $3-an-hour salary, guards are covered by village accident insurance, Weber said. Equipment for the job is provided.

Generally, housewives and retired persons fill the positions. But in recent years it has been increasingly difficult to interest people in the job, Weber said.

"The only thing we seem to be able to get is complaints when a crossing guard isn't there," he said.

Persons interested in working as school crossing guards may apply at the personnel office on the second floor of the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Driving range, shop area planned Golf, Arlington

Plans for a golf driving range near the Northwest Tollway and a revised shopping center at Golf and Arlington Heights roads were presented to Arlington Heights officials Tuesday.

Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer and developer Lee Romano are seeking to build a multi-store shopping center near the southeast corner of the Golf-Arlington Heights intersection, across from an existing Jewel-Osco complex. Zoning for a similar, 17-store center was conditionally granted by village officials in 1969, with several restrictions placed upon final approval.

Meyer went to the plat and subdivision subcommittee to clarify whether a recent court ruling making conditional zoning illegal applies to the zoning decision before making further plans for the site. Subcommittee members told Meyer they could not give him an answer before first getting an opinion from their attorney.

Initial plans for the center by Romano called for a Kroger food store and a large drug store to be the major tenants of the center. Meyer told the subcommittee he was not sure what changes would be made in the original plans, but that Romano was currently negotiating with Dominick's Food Stores to operate a store in the new center.

Egypt, Israel agree on interim peace pact

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (UPI) — Egyptian political sources said Tuesday that Egypt and Israel had agreed on the terms of an interim peace treaty and that a written document would be initialed by Egypt Friday or Saturday.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew to Egypt late Tuesday with an Israeli-approved draft of a settlement for final consideration by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

"We are working on the documentation and it's a hell of a lot of work," said a senior U. S. official aboard the Kissinger plane.

The Egyptian sources told UPI that Kissinger and Sadat would work on putting the latest Israeli version and some final Egyptian touches into writing.

"The agreement has reached the drafting stage," the sources said. "It seems only the wording is a problem."

In Jerusalem, Kissinger emerged from a six-hour meeting with Israeli leaders and told reporters before flying on to Egypt.

"We are making remarkable progress toward an agreement and a nervous breakdown and it's going to be a race to see which will be achieved first."

Foreign Minister Yigal Allon stood at his side and told reporters, "I have the feeling that during the last two days we achieved remarkable progress toward conclusion of an interim agreement and we are much closer to a positive conclusion than ever since the shuttle was resumed."

Later, Allen made an official announcement that Israel would be ceding territory to Egypt.

Terms of the proposed treaty call for expansion of Egyptian territory in the Sinai desert east of the Suez Canal, including return of the Abu Rudeis oil fields seized by Israel in the 1967 Middle East war.

The senior official aboard the Kissinger plane told reporters that the treaty would first be initialed this week and later would be formally signed in Geneva. It would go into effect when follow-up technical details have been agreed upon by Egypt and Israel, he said.

He said Kissinger's shuttle effort would be finished by Saturday at the latest, or not at all.

Sadat greeted Kissinger for nighttime talks at his Maamoura villa on the Mediterranean shore in his usual style, kissing the secretary on both cheeks. Kissinger simply rubbed his

$23,114 water loss normal in Hoffman

About 66 million gallons of water have been lost in Hoffman Estates this year because of underground seepage and firefighting needs. The loss, amounting to $23,114 based on residential water rates, is "normal" for the village, administrators say, but Trustee William Cowin Monday said the figure represented a "horrendous loss" and called for a study. Village Mgr. George Longmeyer and Village Pres. Virginia Hayter say the loss is about average and is not as bad as losses in other communities. The village has more than 100 miles of underground water lines. It is one of many Northwest suburban communities which has petitoned for a future Lake Michigan water allotment to supplement the dwindling underground well water.

Utility, state near agreement

A negotiated settlement is near between the Citizens Utilities Co. and the Illinois Attorney General's office, both sides said Tuesday. The Illinois Pollution Control Board contends the firm has failed to provide safe, clean water to its customers. But James Jenks, assistant attorney general, said it is doubtful a settlement will be reached before a scheduled hearing on the matter Sept. 3. The state complaint asks penalties of not more than $10,000 for each violation with an additional $1,000 penalty for each day the violation continues. The charges against the firm cover users in Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and Wheeling Township. Many residents have complained about sand, oil and rust in their water, low pressure and water outages.

Sex movie case in court today

A Circuit Court hearing is scheduled today on an injunction sought by the State's Attorney's office to bar sexually explicit movies from being shown at the 53 Outdoor Theatre in Palatine. Judge Francis T. Delaney will review the matter at 2 p.m. in Room 2302 of the Civic Center in Chicago. Several residents living near the theater and people who frequently drive past the drive-in at night are expected to testify, said John Dienner, assistant state's attorney. The suit contends "sexually explicit films" can be seen clearly by motorists driving past the theater, located at Rand and Hicks roads, causing a public nuisance, traffic jams, accidents. Kohlberg Theatres, which owns the 53 Outdoor Drive-in and the Meadows Theatre in Rolling Meadows, has proposed showing only general interest movies on the main screen at the drive-in and building two new screens, less visible to the public, for X-rated shows.

Mayor may back transfer tax

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said Tuesday he is leaning favorably toward a proposal calling for a real estate transfer tax which could reap $50,000 a year for the city. The transfer tax was proposed several weeks ago by Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th, to bring the city needed revenue. The tax would be levied on all real estate transactions in Des Plaines.

Behrel would make no prediction on the amount of revenue that might be generated by the transfer tax, but City Comptroller Duane L. Blietz estimates the figure at about $50,000. The comptroller said there are about 1,000 real estate transactions in the city each year, and he based the estimate on the possibility of making an average of $50 on each sale.

Lifting controls on oil will hurt motorist: official

President Ford's plan to lift federal controls on oil prices wil allow major oil companies to squeeze more money out of consumers and put more dealers out of business, James Brawar of the Illinois Service Station Operators Assn. said Tuesday.

Brawar, of Des Plaines, said the decontrol move will not have a great impact on gasoline supply. He recently returned from a meeting of the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers at Brainerd, Minn., where "the consensus of opinion is that the government is deliberately making it impossible for the service station operators to act as independent businessmen."

Dealers who lease stations from oil companies may be forced out of business and replaced by managers "like they did 40 years ago," Brawar said. "In other words, they're eliminating the middle man."

BRAWAR SAID many service station dealers have cushioned the impact of rising petroleum prices on consumers. He said the elimination of competition among area stations by major oil companies and the elimination of independent service station operators will mean higher pump prices for gasoline.

"In the long run, it's going to be the consumer that suffers the most," Brawar said. He predicted little change in gasoline prices immediately following the expiration of price controls Aug. 31. "But next year the public will pay 70 cents to a dollar for a gallon of gasoline," he said.

Walker signs 13 bills to expand women's rights

by United Press International

Gov. Daniel Walker Tuesday signed into law 13 bills designed to expand women's rights and he appointed Beverly Addante as a state women's advocate.

Walker had named Miss Addante, 32, assistant director of the Dept. of Personnel in 1973 but she was rejected by the Illinois Senate. She is a former school teacher.

Walker said Miss Addante will act as a liaison between himself and women's organizations which wish to contact him.

Among the bills Walker signed is one making Susan B. Anthony's Feb. 15 birthday a commemorative holiday, one requiring hospitals to furnish free emergency care to rape victims, another authorizing more part-time state jobs and several easing credit restrictions formerly placed on women.

UNDER THE RAPE bill, hospitals will be reimbursed by Illinois Dept. of Public Health for the free services they provide rape victims.

One of the credit measures prohibits banks from requiring single women to get promissory notes cosigned if the same requirement is not made of men. Another prohibits credit card companies from requiring a person to list his or her marital status on applications except in cases where a joint account is sought. A third prohibits credit card companies from requiring a person to reapply for credit because of a change in marital status. Women were required to make new applications when they were married.

Walker also signed a bill authorizing the Illinois Dept. of Personnel to make up to 10 per cent of jobs in any state agency part time.

"This will make it possible to hire many more women who can only work part time," Walker said.

Ullman: individual tax cut should be permanent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, proposed Tuesday making permanent the $7.7 billion in tax cuts for individuals enacted this spring to bring the country out of the recession.

As passed in April, the tax cut was to have been a one-time economic stimulant. The administration has not decided whether it favors an extension. Economic spokesmen say that decision can be put off until October.

If the tax cut is not extended in 1976, taxes would automatically rise starting Jan. 1. Paychecks would reflect an increase in tax withholding.

Ullman also called for extending for one more year the business tax cut of about $2.5 billion achieved through a reduction of corporate income tax rates, and proposed extending through 1977 the $3.3 billion increase in the investment tax credit which otherwise would expire Dec. 31, 1976.

Ullman's proposals were made known in a committee pamphlet describing ideas members want considered when the panel starts drafting a tax reform bill after Congress returns from recess next month.

For individuals, the tax cuts which Ullman proposed making permanent were:

Raising the minimum standard deduction from $1,300 to $1,600 and to $1,900 for joint returns; increasing the percentage standard deduction from 15 to 16 per cent and the maximum standard deduction from $2,000 to $2,300 for single persons and to $2,600 for joint returns; and giving every taxpayer, taxpayer's spouse and dependent a tax credit of $30. A credit is an amount subtracted from taxes owed.

The 1975 corporate tax cut, which Ullman would extend through 1976, reduces to 20 per cent the tax rate corporations pay on the first $50,000 of profit. Under the old scale, firms paid 22 per cent on the first $25,000 of profit and the full 48 per cent corporate income tax rate on additional profit.

The investment tax credit was increased from 7 to 10 per cent to induce firms to buy new equipment. The credit permits firms to receive a tax refund on 10 per cent of the cost of new equipment.

Even if the administration chooses to oppose them, Ullman's tax cut proposals are expected to gather broad support in Congress. Liberal economists are arguing that a rise in taxes next year to the previous levels — along with the expected jolts of higher food and petroleum prices — could snuff out the economic recovery now under way.

In the administration, only Labor Secretary John Dunlop has spoken for extending the tax cut another year. William Seidman, assistant to the President for economic affairs told a White House conference in Milwaukee Monday that the question of extending any sort of tax reduction through 1976 will remain under study until October.

"We want to see how the economic situation is," he said.

Report slaughters in Portugese Timor

Refugees fleeing Portuguese Timor said Tuesday that troops of a Marxist independence movement are mercilessly slaughtering men, women and children in the civil war sweeping the island colony. Reports reaching Macao, the Portuguese enclave on the mainland of China, said 1,000 refugees were still crowding the harbor of the Portuguese Timor capital of Dili, desperately trying to get out.

OPEC financial experts end Vienna meeting

Financial experts from oil-exporting countries ended a week-long meeting in Vienna Tuesday on world inflation and how it might affect the price of oil. Oil ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will discuss the experts' report at their meeting here next month and could use it as an excuse to boost oil prices.

U.S., S. Korea map security

The defense chiefs of the United States and South Korea worked Tuesday in Seoul, on plans for a tight security posture on the Korean peninsula in the wake of the Communist takeover of Indochina. Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger and his South Korean counterpart Suh Jyongchul, assisted by 10 aides each, opened the two-day annual security consultative meeting between the two countries and scheduled another round of full discussions Wednesday.

South Korean sources said a joint communique after the talks would possibly include additional American guarantees against any aggression from North Korea.

Blacks, whites work together in Boston

While Boston prepares for a second year of court-ordered school desegregation a group of 16 high school students is proving that black and white youngsters can get along in Boston. The multiracial group from public and private schools has been engaged in filming a 10-minute documentary. For the past two months the group, called Teen New Team (TNT), roamed the troubled areas of Boston videotaping the reactions of their peers for the film. They hope their film will be shown in schools and community centers and shed some insight into the city's attitude towards desegregation.

Grand jury to question Hoffa witnesses

Federal authorities said Tuesday a federal grand jury will begin questioning witnesses next Tuesday in an attempt to determine how and why James R. Hoffa disappeared. Robert Ozer, head of the government's Organized Crime Strike Force office in Detroit, said about 70 witnesses were expected. The grand jury, he said, was expected to sit for several weeks. U.S. Attorney Ralph B. Guy Jr. said the FBI and state and local police have failed to develop evidence that would mean a "break" in the case.

Dems pick convention site today

The Democrats decide Wednesday whether to hold their 1976 national convention in New York City or Los Angeles. New York is reported to be the preference of Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss, but no one is dismissing the Los Angeles bid for the meeting expected to start July 12, 1976. Before voting, the national committee's 20-member site selection committee will listen to last-minute sales pitches from both cities and to recommendations of its professional staff.

Pact may be initialed Friday

Egypt, Israel OK interim treaty cheeks against Sadat's.

The Egyptian president then told reporters he could not answer any questions until he talked with the American he calls his "brother."

But he said that if Kissinger's shuttle diplomacy succeeds, "this will mean the defusion of the explosive situation. It is for the sake of peace, not only for the Arabs but the Israelis."

The senior U. S. official told reporters there would be only one treaty but that separate documents would spell out special assurances from one country to another — for example from Egypt to the United States.

"We are no longer working on either an Israeli or an Egyptian draft agreement," Kissinger said. "We are working on a text that is partially agreed and partially disagreed. When it is finally finished it will be the common consensus of both sides.

"We are going through formulations of matters, most of which are agreed, and it depends what expression they can be given. That is what we are spending a great deal of our time on in addition to bilateral Israeli-U. S. matters."

The three-nation treaty would contain Egyptian pledges to ease its economic and trade boycott and political and propaganda campaign against Israel. Egypt would also agree to let Israel keep its $150 million Umm Khashiba main advance warning base on the slopes of the Gidi Pass.

The proposed pact also calls for American technicians to man early warning stations between Israeli and Egyptian armies in Sinai, a move which Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he opposes.

Kissinger said he was not "excessively surprised" at Mansfield's position and added:

"We will consult very carefully with the Congress. Our impression is that we can get it through after some serious debate."

Kissinger was expected to return to Israel by Wednesday night or Thursday morning with Sadat's reaction.

U.S. aid in Angola airlift sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Portugal has asked the United States to help evacuate up to 300,000 whites from Angola and the United States is prepared "in principle" to assist, the State Department said Tuesday.

Pentagon sources said the Joint Chiefs of Staff hoped no U.S. military aircraft or personnel would be involved and that commercial American aircraft would be used.

The Portuguese national airline, TAP, has been ferrying refugees out for several weeks but is apprently overwhelmed by the size of the evacuation.

Angola, Portugal's last colony in Africa, has been torn by fighting among rival black antinationalist groups vying to control the country upon independence, scheduled for Nov. 11.

State Department spoiesman Robert L. Funseth said Portuguese President Francisco da Costa Gomes told U.S. Ambassador Frank Carlucci in a meeting last Friday that Portugal would need help in evacuating the refugees.

"He said Portugal would be sending the United States a formal request. Ambassador Carlucci expressed our willingness, in principle, to help, subject to availability of funds," Funseth said.

He added, "There are numerous problems of funding and logistics that have to be worked out."

In Lisbon, meantime, a power failure blacked out Portugal, causing jitters and renewed rumors of a possible coup. Prime Minister Vasco Goncalves met with his cabinet in an apparent attempt to show the nation he was still in power.

In the central town of Leiria, crowds again gathered outside the Communist party headquarters where troops fired on an anti-Communist mob early Tuesday, killing one man and wounding 10 others.

About 2,000 demonstrators attacked the Leiria Communist headquarters for the second time in 24 hours. Army troops assigned to protect the Communists exchanged gunfire with the protesters and hurled tear gas grenades into the crowd.

No hint of wildcat miner strike end

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — U. S. District Judge K. K. Hall fined four striking West Virginia coal miners $500 each Tuesday, but there was no hint of a halt in a crippling wildcat walkout by 40,000 miners.

A coal industry spokesman estimated the walkout, now in its third week, had cut the nation's production by nearly two million tons.

At the heart of the protest was a demand by strikers that a "right to strike" clause be inserted in the 1974 union contract. The leadership of the United Mine Workers rejected the proposal, saying it could not legally reopen contract talks.

Joseph P. Brennan, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators' Association, bargaining agent for most of the nation's producers, said the association had "no intention" of reopening contract negotiations with the UMW.

The strike began Aug. 11 over the firing of a southern West Virginia union official, spread with the jailing of another official, and snowballed when miners decided to make an issue of the "right to strike" proposal.

Some miners said they planned to drive to Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania and Tennessee to set up picket lines and seek support. There was no indication the threat was carried out.

Edwin Wiles, president of the West Virginia Coal Association, estimated the strike cost miners $10 million in pay and reduced domestic coal production by 1.8 million tons, a figure growing by up to 300,000 tons per day.

Two officials caught in 'Nixon tape vise'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Caught between court orders and congressional demands, two administration officials must appear before a Senate committee Wednesday to explain why they cannot produce Nixon era tapes and documents on intelligence activities.

A spokesman for the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence said White House Counsel Philip Buchen and General Services Administrator Arthur G. Sampson must appear before the panel at 8 a.m. CDT Wednesday.

The Justice Department Monday said that Buchen and Sampson, as custodians of the Nixon documents and tapes, had been placed in "unreasonable jeopardy" because the courts say the documents must be impounded while the Senate committee says the documents must be handed over.

The pair were served with subpoenas Aug. 12 demanding material relating to 1970 CIA activities in Chile and plans by President Richard M. Nixon to use illegal methods to crush anti-war and other groups he considered dissident.

The problem for Burchen and Sampson is that last October the U.S. district court in Washington ruled that the tons of Nixon documents and tapes be impounded until the dispute over who owns them — Nixon or the government — is resolved.

The Justice Department went back to the court last Friday and Monday seeking a release from the ruling so that Buchen and Sampson would be able to turn the documents over.

Slayton's lung lesion is benign

• Cancer specialists have removed a tiny benign tumor from the left lung of Donald "Deke" Slayton and said America's oldest astronaut should easily recover to fly again in space. Prior to the surgery, doctors told Slayton it was a better than 50 per cent chance the lesion was cancer because of his age and the fact he had smoked heavily for 30 years. The growth, about the size of a pencil eraser, was removed in a 2½ hour operation. Doctors said he should be able to leave the hospital in Houston in 10 to 12 days. Slayton is expected to be ready for a two-week tour of the Soviet Union Sept. 22 . . . following the good news for Astronaut Slayton, his buddy in space, Thomas P. Stafford announced he will leave the space agency on Nov. 1 to rejoin the Air Force. He will become director of the Air Force Flight Test Center at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

• University of Texas football coach Darrall Royal and the Austin Jaycees Tuesday were named winners of the first "Barefoot and Pregnant" award by the Austin Chapter of the National Organization for Women for their alleged efforts to hinder women's equality. Donna Walker-Ashworth, president of the local NOW chapter said Royal was picked because of his opposition to Title 9 regulations issued by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, requiring more emphasis on women's athletic programs. Royal had said if the school was required to split proceeds equally from its football program, several men's sports programs would have to be cancelled for lack of funds. The Jaycees were cited for their antiquated policy of not admitting women members.

• A paroled member of the gang that got away with $7 million in the Great Train Robbery was sentenced Tuesday to return to jail for six months — for shoplifting. Ronald "Buster" Edwards, whose share of the robbery loot was said to have been $425,000, pleaded guilty to stealing $143 worth of women's shirts, pliers and staples from Harrod's department store in London. He was released on $1,100 bail after announcing he would appeal the sentence. His share of the train robbery loot never has been recovered.

• Politics: The White House said Tuesday President Ford has been traveling, not as a candidate, but, as a party leader whose expenses will be paid by the Republican National Committee, probably until Jan. 1 . . . Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., just returned from Peking, said he believes China is too preoccupied with its economic development to promote a conflict between North and South Korea . . . Vice President Nelson Rockefeller began his political swing through Alabama and South Carolina to show them that — as he puts it — "I don't have horns." The swing follows a meeting of southern Republican chairman, who reportedly agreed they prefer "almost anyone" to Rockefeller as GOP vice presidential candidate in 1976 . . . Democratic Gov. Milton Shapp said in Philadelphia he will enter presidential primaries in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Maine. "I intend to run for President but have not announced yet," he said.

• The mystery voice who pestered Princess Anne with nuisance telephone calls has been found out, the Daily Mirror newspaper said. The crank caller's identity was undisclosed. A few of the calls were mildly obscene. The princess has been given a new number.

Schools impasse ends; pact near

by MARILYN McDONALD

Prospect Heights Dist. 23 school board negotiators and teachers have ended an impasse in contract talks, but still will not settle before school starts Sept. 2.

"We're going back to school without substantive issues or money settled," Kenneth Bates, spokesman for the union negotiators, said. "But the impasse has been called off and we've come to agreement on a number of things."

Board negotiators declared an impasse in contract talks July 17 after they made concessions in some areas, but teachers failed to reciprocate. Both sides met in impasse procedure meetings last week, finally declaring the impasse at an end Thursday. The two sides will meet again Sept. 4.

Although teachers will return to the classrooms without a contract settlement, neither side anticipates any problems.

"THE TONE CONVEYED at Thursday's meeting was that as long as everything is moving along in negotiations, there won't be any effect on school," said Vincent Battaglia, board member and negotiation spokesman.

Board members and union negotiators reached agreement on several items at Thursday's session, leaving "about eight items to settle before a final document is ready," Battaglia said. The district currently is entering the second year of a two-year contract, with salary items open for the second year.

Board members won the round on extra duty and summer school pay increases, sticking to their last offer of 10 per cent raises in each area. Teachers had asked for 15 per cent raises in extra duty and summer school pay.

Other issues settled Thursday include:

- Sick leave accumulation. Teachers may now accumulate up to 135 days of sick leave rather than 120 days as previously allowed.
- Professional travel allocation. Teachers now have a total of $1,500 to spend annually for trips related to professional duties. That same amount was allocated last year, but district officials spent about $500 of it to pay substitute teachers.

the problem.

- Elimination of the agency shop demand. Union negotiators had asked the district to require all teachers to pay dues to the union or be fired. Currently union membership is voluntary, and about 68 per cent of Dist. 21 teachers belong to the union, said James Gochis, district business manager.
- Elimination of a non-discrimination clause. The clause, guaranteeing that the district will not discriminate against employes on a number of grounds will now be covered by similar state and federal laws.

Brady said the teachers still wanted to include sections on academic freedom, class size and employe discipline, but board negotiators said those items should not be included in the contract. The board wants a three-year contract, but teachers say they'll accept only a one-year document.

Brady said teachers were seeking a total financial increase of 15 per cent despite Gov. Daniel Walker's statewide education cuts because "there's still the possibility that the legislature will rescind Gov. Walker's veto in October."

"But secondly, the board has not come to us and said they don't have the money to pay us. If they want to sit down with their budget, we'd be willing to go through it item by item. But we feel there is some fat in the budget," Brady said.

BRADY DENIED that union negotiators stalled at the table Monday, knowing that state IEA Pres. Woody Lee was scheduled to meet with teachers Wednesday. "We had every intention of reaching an agreement Monday night," Brady said.

Dist. 21's teaching staff is scheduled to meet today to determine their next step. They could agree to accept the board's last offer, or instruct their negotiators to continue talking. Should teachers vote to continue negotiating, a mediator must be called in to resolve the impasse.

Teachers still have the option of voting to strike. Their "no-strike" clause in the contract expired June 25.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Boy, 9, still wets his pants

I am writing in reference to my 9-year-old stepson. He continually wets his pants, and still wets the bed, then gets up and sits on the furniture and rug with wet clothes on, even though he knows he is supposed to shower and dress before going into another part of the house.

He tries to hide the fact he wets his pants, even though one can see it and smell it. The school officials suggested I have him tested for sanitary reasons. I made an appointment with an urologist, and he gave him complete x-rays and tests and could find nothing physically wrong.

I am wondering whether it's mental. I know he frets all week about the visitation day with his real father. He said he wishes that day in the week would not come. He has told his father his feelings, but he won't believe the boy. My stepdaughter is perfectly normal, but has the same feelings toward her father.

You did the right thing in having a medical checkup. Daytime wetting is usually more indicative of a problem than nighttime wetting. Enuresis is the technical name, but whatever you call it, it occurs in 10 to 15 per cent of children at 5 years of age, five per cent at 10 years of age, and one per cent at 15 years of age.

Daytime wetting and wetting at older ages is often associated with infection or some abnormality of the urinary tract. A small bladder is a common cause for wetting in the early years.

The older child who has this problem who does not have any of these abnormalities often has an emotional problem. And, it is sometimes related to loss of a parent or separation from a parent. Your story is very significant in this light.

YOU SHOULD try to get some professional guidance for your stepson. Perhaps you have a community mental health clinic available to you or if not the school officials might help you locate the nearest source of psychological or psychiatric help. As the stepfather I think you would be in a very poor position to really help him if the problem revolves around his natural father and his feelings toward him. You could misinterpret the child's real feelings. His reluctance to change his soiled clothing is a further clue that he needs help.

I must add that not every case of bedwetting or even daytime wetting is an indication for psychological or psychiatric counseling. The problem is common before age six and will often go away on its own regardless of what parents do.

For those who need help, often rewarding dry nights and days with encouragement and love, instead of punishment or ridicule will help. The child should be encouraged as early as possible to handle his own mess when he fails, at least to the extent that he can.

Medicines sometimes help control the problem until the child outgrows it. Of these, imiparamine hydrochloride (Tofranil), an anti-depressant is useful. The conditioning technique of an alarm that rings and awakens the child is also a help in some instances.

Sex detection odds higher with new method

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Using an easy new technique, researchers at the Indiana University Medical Center scored 86.1 per cent in predicting whether pregnant women would bear boys or girls.

They are correct each time they predicted a male birth, wrong some female births. In all, they predicted accurately 31 of 36 times.

The research could contribute to prevention of numerous birth defects and of abortions by women whose high risk of having abnormal children makes them regret being pregnant.

Why learn the child's sex early?

SAMUEL A. RHINE, a Ph.D. candidate who headed the research said, "It's important to us in terms of inherited diseases that are sex linked. They show up in males.

"Those include hemophilia-A and the most common form of muscular dystrophy. There's a 50 per cent risk the child will have it if it's a male, no risk if it's a female."

Rhine and his fellow researchers used an "easy" method that begins with a smear any doctor can take in his office — much like the pap smear used for early detection of uterine cancer.

Do not expect it in your doctor's office, however. It is strictly a research technique now, and the researchers are not making a service of it.

SEX DETECTION now usually is done by amniocentesis — drawing fluid out of the womb through a needle. Researchers said it is best accomplished in the 16th week of pregnancy or after.

Sex was confirmed as early as the ninth week in the method Rhine and his associates used. He said there was hope of doing so as early as the seventh week. If abortion is indicated to prevent the birth of an abnormal child, the earlier the better, doctors said.

The new technique involves staining the cells collected on cotton swab and viewing them under a fluorescent microscope. Cell structures called "y-bodies" denoting maleness glow especially bright. The baby is presumed to be a girl if no y-bodies show up.

Rhine said that by swabbing as far back in the cervix of the uterus as possible, at the back of the "mucous plug" that develops after conception, cells from the embrionic membrance were collected. The swab does not, however, reach the womb.

Rep. Borchers innocent in state-swindling case

A federal court jury in Springfield Tuesday found State Rep. Webber Borchers innocent of mail fraud and conspiracy charges in a case where he was accused of swindling the state out of $1,650.

"I think the verdict was a just one, I think what I did was right," the smiling Decatur Republican said after hearing the verdict. "I would do this again if the same circumstances arose."

Borchers admitted during the trial he used a roundabout way to pay an informant for undercover work during the height of student unrest in Illinois, but said there was no fraud involved.

The U.S. District Court jury began deliberations at 12:15 p.m. Tuesday and returned its verdict about 4:30 p.m.

U.S. Atty. Donald B. Mackay declined comment except to say that Borchers used "a unique defense."

"He did not deny the facts, but relied solely on his reputation and patriotism," Mackay said.

Borchers is accused of paying $1,650 in state money to Jeanette Weber for secretarial work she never did.

Miss Weber was then secretary to former state Rep. Christian Homeier III, R-Springfield. Miss Weber gave the money to Homeier, who gave $1,100 of it to Borchers.

Part of this cash, Borchers testified, was used to pay an undercover campus spy he hired to probe student unrest. Borchers put the rest in his pocket to reimburse himself for earlier payments to his informant.

Borchers said he had to pay his informant cash because the young man refused to be paid with a state check.

Borchers' lawyer, Glenn O. Fuller, said his client never intended to steal state funds to "line his own pocket."

"If his purpose had been to defraud, he wouldn't have told Homeier to put some of the money aside for income tax," Fuller said.

Struck districts cancel class

Classes for some 51,000 students were called off in 12 Illinois school districts Tuesday as 2,500 high school and elementary teachers were on strike. Strikes are under way in Bloom Township, Kankakee, Mattoon, Urbana, Belvidere, DePue, Piasa Southwestern, Spring Valley, Hillsboro, Sycamore, Genoa-Kingston and Harlem Unit Dist. 122 near Rockford. All the districts on strike except Kankakee are affiliated with the Illinois Education Assn. Kankakee is affiliated with the Illinois Federation of Teachers. Chicago City College teachers also continued their strike Tuesday despite a court order instructing them to return to classes.

Jobless pay system studied

The management consultant firm of Arthur Andersen has been hired to design a new unemployment benefit system for Illinois, Director Donald A. Johnson of the state Labor Dept. announced Tuesday.

But, Johnson warned, no big speedup in the payment of unemployment benefits can be expected until July of next year.

"The system is the same as it was when it began in 1937," said Johnson. "It has never been updated."

Suit to cost SIU $5 million

Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, could lose some $5 million in federal funds because of a prolonged and unresolved sex discrimination charge. The case stems from 1971 when Spanish-born Marisa Canut-Amoros, 50, resigned as professor of technology and filed a sex discrimination charge.

She said her salary was not equal to males with similar experience and she was denied sabbatical leave and research privileges because she was a woman. The university attempted to settle, and SIU Pres. Warren Brandt, said federal officials agreed the offer was fair, even though Mrs. Canut-Amoros turned it down. Brandt said the university received a letter Aug. 4 from the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare giving 30 days' notice to show cause why federal assistance and contracts should not be cut off.

Illinois briefs

State firing probe asked

State Sen. Richard Newhouse, D-Chicago, Tuesday said a Senate subcommittee will investigate complaints that state agencies are violating the personnel code by firing long-term employes and replacing them with less experienced persons. Newhouse said sexual, racial and age discrimination is suspected in some firings. The subcommittee will make the investigation at the request of Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago. Partee said he has received many complaints from long-term, career employes of the state.

Man held in highway attack

A Southern Illinois man was in jail Tuesday after a Vail, Colo., woman reported that he tried to break into her car while she was parked on the side of the road to rest. Jeanine Hixson, 29, told police she was en route to Indiana when she pulled off U.S. Rte. 40. She said she was awakened by a man who broke the windshield and back window of the car and punctured the tires. Police said Miss Hixson escaped by biting the man on a finger and running for help at nerby Interstate 70. Police later arrested George V. Newman Jr., 21, Altamont, and charged him with aggravated battery, burglary and criminal damage to property.

Record 34,435 at U of I

A record 34,435 students have enrolled for classes at the Champaign-Urbana campus of the University of Illinois, officials said Tuesday. Heavy enrollment will force university officials to decide soon whether there will be any space available for new students in the 1976 spring term, a spokesman said. Total enrollment this semester includes 26,626 undergraduate and professional students and 7,809 graduate students. The total represents an increase of 395 students, 1.2 per cent more than last year.

Rosemont residents test 'Hands Across the Nation'

Will 5 million people form U.S. hand bridge?

About 450 persons joined hands in Rosemont Tuesday in an abbreviated trial run of a Chicago lawyer's plan to stretch hands across the nation as a bicentennial spectacular for July 4, 1976.

Atty. Marvin L. Rosenblum said the hand holders were "from all walks of life, ages, races, colors and creeds." They stretched for two blocks in the Chicago suburb.

Rosenblum said he estimates that some 5 million people could form the hand bridge across the United States, figuring 1,320 people per mile. He said the demonstration in Rosemont was to show "that if every small town and large city can unite and pull together by demonstrating a true sense of civic involvement, spirit and unity, hands across the nation will become a reality on July 4, 1976."

Rosenblum said since he first suggested the idea a month ago, there have been hundreds of enthusiastic calls and letters about the plan.

Galloping Greenhouse off 'n' running

by ANNE SLAVICEK
First of a series

In its first year, the Galloping Greenhouse has grown like a weed even though its two owners believe they probably broke every rule for starting a business.

They took an idea — selling houseplants at "parties" in homes a la Tupperware — and have nurtured it to the point where the Galloping Greenhouse has five employes, stages 10 to 12 parties a week and soon will open a store.

The current popularity of houseplants and a sales method particularly suited to their product have helped Christine Day and Nancy Barkman build a viable business.

THE BARRIERS they overcame and the problems they still face are typical of those encountered every day by people who start their own companies. These entrepreneurs combine an idea and a dream, often struggling unsuccessfully against odds that don't favor the little guy.

Mrs. Barkman and Mrs. Day, both residents of Palatine now are convinced they could start almost any type of business with the expertise they've acquired.

They learned how to manage employes, set prices, deal with suppliers, determine pay scales (including their own) and develop effective sales techniques.

The idea for the company came in part because their neighbors turned to them for advice on caring for plants and because plant parties, while a novelty in the Northwest suburbs, were a success in California.

The first problem the company owners ran across was convincing wholesalers to sell them plants.

PLANT WHOLESALERS wouldn't even talk to them until they'd filed with the state for a sales tax number and posted a bond to insure they would pay their sales taxes.

Even after that, they found the wholesalers mostly hostile. Some thought the women were only trying to enlarge their own plant collections.

"The wholesalers still don't take us seriously even though we bring them more buisness than most plant stores," Mrs. Day said.

Many wholesalers also refused to deliver plants to the Galloping Greenhouse because the company didn't have a store. "I've loaded as many as 90 plants in my station wagon," Mrs. Barkman said.

THE WOMEN are perplexed by the attitudes of some wholesalers who aren't impressed that the company pays cash for its purchases instead of waiting for a bill.

"I'm eager to find out if they're hostile because we're women or if it is because we didn't have a storefront," Mrs. Day said.

Other reasons they decided they needed a retail outlet included problems the two have encountered trying to work at home while caring for their families.

Mrs. Barkman admits she will be glad when the company's telephone line goes to the store and not into her home. She has had enough, she said, "of booking parties on the phone while you're trying to make peanut butter and jelly sandwiches."

The company hired its first employes at the beginning of 1975 when demand had increased to the point where six parties were scheduled each week.

Mrs. Day said it was difficult at first to both make employes feel a part of the company and at the same time retain control of the company. Now they find it necessary to have a sales meeting each month to make sure that each of their saleswomen is telling party goers the same things.

HIRING EMPLOYES sent the two owners to an attorney for employment contracts. Since then they've needed an attorney to incorporate and to copyright their logo.

Other problems they faced included finding a greenhouse willing to grow plants to their specifications when the store opens, and locating a building to rent for their store. The site they chose is across the railroad tracks from downtown Palatine and was the the village's first hotel.

More difficult than the physical problems of hauling plants to the parties and trying to squeeze indoor trees into a station wagon, were the psychological problems of dealing with people, the two women said.

It was difficult to learn that they couldn't all go to every party, or participate in each decision. "But now we're each finding our individual areas," Mrs. Barkman said.

ALL OF THOSE problems were beyond the ones unique to their business, like finding supplies of healthy plants and compiling information on how to care for them. In addition they had to prepare brochures on plant care for people who attend the parties and they had to figure ways to store the plants in their homes between parties.

Now they face additional challenges of setting up the store, which also will be called the Galloping Greenhouse, finding wholesale sources of plant paraphernnalia like pots, plant food and books, hiring an accountant, and going from a cash-only wholesale purchases to a credit basis.

The women started the business along with a third neighbor who has since moved away. Each of the three contributed some of the money to start the business.

"We had no idea it would take off like this. None of us really had any business experience," Mrs. Day said.

DESPITE INEXPERIENCE, the owners didn't find it necessary to turn to professional management companies for advice.

"The whole thing has been thinking things through and trying new ideas," Mrs. Barkman said.

"We never even contacted the Small Business Administration until finally we were having trouble with wholesalers who wouldn't sell to us even after we had our tax number," Mrs. Day said.

"All the man (at the Small Business Administration) said was 'Look, lady, if they don't want to sell to you, they don't have to," she said.

Now wholesalers are calling the Galloping Greenhouse owners to solicit their business and the two owners don't mind one bit.

THE ENTREPRENEURS

ADVICE ON HOW TO care for the plants you buy is one reason for the success of the Galloping Greenhouse, a company that sells plants at parties. Co-owner Christine Day praised the virtures of a Boston Fern to women at a recent party in a Des Plaines home.

Launching small business? Watch for financial reefs

by LEA TONKIN

There is only one way to find out whether you've got what it takes to launch a successful small business.

Do it.

That's the advice of John Frieburg, executive vice president of the Bank & Trust Co. of Arlington Heights. Frieburg warns that it takes more than spunk to survive minor calamities and financial headaches experienced by fledgling entrepreneurs.

"If you're going into business strictly for financial gain, and that's all you have in mind, I'd strongly urge you to forget it," Frieburg said. "But if it's something you've always wanted to do then you should go ahead."

BONE UP ON the business you have in mind before you make plans to open shop, Frieburg advised. He said the would-be entrepreneur who has a head for business and experience in the field he's chosen has an edge in the struggle for survival. Be aware that the failure rate for some types of businesses, such as the restaurant business, is nine out of 10 new companies.

"The biggest mistake is trying to start a business without any capital — your own money," the banker continued. "You'll need more capital the first year than you think you do."

Line up a good accountant, an attorney and a banker as allies in the new business venture, Frieburg suggested. An accountant should determine capital needs potential earnings and other basic information. Consult with your accountant at least once a month when the business is in operation.

A common mistake that spells the demise of a new business is the owners failure to plow money back into the business, Frieburg said. Check three to five years worth of company financial data if you're buying an existing business, he said.

Financing arrangements can be worked out through banks, private investors and other sources. A limited amount of funds is available through the Small Business Administration loan guarantee program. "If you're turned down three times for financing, you could abandon the idea or take another hard look," Frieburg said. "I throw every roadblock in their way. Then if they have sufficient money and they're still enthusiastic, I suggest they go ahead."

A NEW BUSINESS may have a 50-50 chance of survival, said Howard Vondruska, assistant district director for the SBA in Chicago. The Dun & Bradstreet Inc. reports indicate a continued increase in the number of new business incorporations, however. In April of this year, for example, the incorporations numbered 26,506 in the country.

Vondruska said would-be entrepreneurs can call the SBA sponsors monthly worshops for people interested don'ts of starting a company. A volunteer in the Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) will likely counsel the caller. The telephone number if 353-7723. The SBA sponsores monthly workshops for people interested in starting a business. Vondruska suggests a talk with a local banker as the first step in the endeavor.

Financing problems are among the biggest hurdles for the new business owner. For information on business loans, small business executives can contact the American Bankers Assn. The association's commercial lending division published "A Bankers Guide to Small Business Loans." It is aimed at assisting bankers and their customers in relations with the SBA.

"Approximately 95 per cent of all American businesses qualify as small businesses, and the overwhelming majority of them obtain financing — seed capital, funds for growth, diversification and expansion — from America's banks," said Jack Eachon Jr., chairman of the commercial division small business credit committee.

Some businesses do not meet the requirements for standard business loans but they may deserve financial assistance for social and other reasons, Eachon said.

"A Banker's Guide to Small Business Loans" costs $5. To order a copy, ask for number 1618 from Order Processing, American Bankers Assn., 1120 Connecticut Ave., N.W., Washington, D. C. 20036.

Dow slides 9.23 to end two-day Wall Street rally

NEW YORK (UPI) — A sharp rise in yields at the Treasury's latest auction discouraged Wall Street investors Tuesday and sent prices sharply lower in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange, snapping a two-day rally.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 9.23 points to 803.11 after being ahead nearly two points at the outset. The closely watched average had gained 20.65 points the previous two sessions following a month-long slide.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 1.01 to 83.96. The average price of an NYSE common share decreased by 36 cents. Declines drubbed advances, 930 to 412.

VOLUME TOTALED only 11,350,000 shares, compared with 11,250,000 traded Monday. The market has been plagued by slow trading for weeks.

Investors appeared to ignore the Commerce Department report the United States compiled a $977.1 million trade surplus in July, the fourth highest ever recorded, but lower than the record $1.74 billion set in June.

The Labor Department last week reported the Consumer Price Index rose at a 14.4 per cent annual rate, putting a damper on other government reports showing the recession had ended and a recovery was under way.

Prices closed lower in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share lost four cents. Volume totaled 1,110,000 shares, compared with 1,260,000 traded Monday.

IN THE AMEX options market, 13,874 contracts were traded, compared with 12,926 Monday. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith January 15s led the actives, off 1/2 to 2 7/8 on 430 contracts. Walt Disney October 40s followed, off 3/4 to 3 3/8 on 410 contracts.

On the Chicaao Board Options Exchange, 39,397 contracts were traded, compared with 45,926 Monday. IBM October 180s led the actives, off 1 1/2 to 9. Polaroid October 40s followed, off 1/4 to 1 1/8. Syntex October 40s were third, off 1/8 to 3/8.

Despite rise in oil imports

U.S. posts 6th straight monthly trade surplus

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States posted its sixth straight monthly trade surplus in July despite an ominous rise in oil imports, the Commerce Dept. reported Tuesday.

The value of American goods shipped overseas in July once again exceeded the value of imported products, making the surprising strength of foreign trade one of the few bright spots in an uneven economic picture.

July's surplus, $977 million seasonally adjusted, was the fourth biggest on record — but well under June's all-time high surplus of $1.74 billion.

THE COMMERCE DEPT. said the surplus was achieved despite a 14.7 per cent — or $973 million — rise in imports.

About $666 million came from increased imports of crude oil and petroleum products. Another $168 million was due to bigger shipments of foreign-made automobiles.

Over-all, imports totaled $7.91 billion. Exports, at $8.88 billion, were at the second highest level this year.

Exports rose 2.2 per cent, or $193 million, over the June level. Increases centered on soybeans at $181 million; motor vehicles and parts, $74 million; wheat, $49 million; and grain sorghums, $42 million.

COMMERCE SEC. Rogers C. B. Morton emphasized the dark side of the trade picture.

"Our dependence on foreign oil has increased over the past year and imports now amount to about 40 per cent of our total petroleum requirements," Morton said. "This proportion is likely to increase in the absence of an overall energy strategy.

"We must develop self sufficiency in energy if we are to maintain a leadership role in world affairs."

Just a few months ago, economists predicted the United States was headed for its fourth trade deficit in the last five years.

BUT THE SITUATION has changed dramatically since then, with a combined January-July surplus of $6.14 billion, and a calendar 1975 surplus seems virtually assured.

The economic recession was responsible for most of the improvement in the trade picture because U.S. businesses, with sales and production slumping and warehouses full of unwanted inventories, decreased their purchases of overseas goods.

Consumers, too, cut back their buying with the exception of imported automobiles. At the same time, the rich oil producing nations were buying more American goods and services.

Agricultural exports, which are less directly influenced by changes in the business cycle, were also booming. The recent massive grain sale to the Soviet Union, whose impact has not yet surfaced in the trade figures, is an

Meany-Ford talks fail to halt grain loading boycott

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO Pres. George Meany came away from a meeting with President Ford Tuesday reporting no settlement in a dispute that caused longshoremen to refuse to load Russian-purchased American grain. He said the boycott would continue.

"The situation has not changed in any way whatsoever," Meany said after a 90-minute meeting with Ford, Labor Sec. John Dunlop and representatives of the maritime unions.

Asked if the boycott would continue, Meany replied: "Yes, sir!"

But Meany, who has demanded assurances that the grain sales will not hurt American consumers or shippers, added he expected further discussions with administration officials in the weeks ahead.

The White House issued a statement describing it as a "preliminary" meeting.

"No decisions were made," the statement said. "There will be further meetings between administration officials and Mr. Meany and his associates. The President will participate in the future meetings as appropriate.

"The meeting explored the matters of grain exports, living costs and maritime issues," the White House said. "This was a preliminary meeting.

PRES SEC. Ron Nessen said the statement summed up what the participants at the meeting agreed to say and refused to elaborate.

Reminded that Meany has announced the boycott would continue, Nessen remarked: "That's not something the White House would say."

The boycott, which was imposed more than a month ago, has led to only one major incident in which longshoremen refused to load grain onto ships in the Houston harbor. That work stoppage ended after one day under a court injunction.

The Agriculture Department simultaneously announced that rains over the midwest portend a better grain harvest, possibly opening the way for more sales to the Soviet Union.

The session included Meany, Dunlop, Pres. Paul Hall of the Seafarers Union, Pres. Theodore Gleason of the International Longshoremen's Assn., Pres. Jesse Calhoun of the National Marine Engineers union, Sec. Treasurer Mel Barisic of the National Maritime union; AFL-CIO Sec.-Treasurer Lane Kirkland, federal Budget Director James Lynn and presidential economic adviser William Seidman.

U.S. AND SOVIET representatives meanwhile were negotiating in Washington on a better rate for American shippers who carry grain purchased by the Soviet Union. But the union's other shipping grievances probably could not be addressed until the U.S.-U.S.S.R. shipping agreement is reopened in meetings beginning Sept. 8 in Moscow.

Although Agriculture Sec. Earl Butz imposed a halt on grain sales to the Soviets after nearly 10 million tons were sold last month, Ford has indicated he intends to lift that embargo and a new Agriculture Dept. report may contribute to his decision.

3 S&Ls plan to open branches in NW suburbs

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago reports that a branch office location in Elk Grove Village was recently approved for Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Assn. The branch office, to be located in the Grove Shopping Center, will open in the fall.

The bank said two applications for area branch office facilities were put to public notice in June and July. They include an application by St. Paul Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Chicago to open an office in the Mount Prospect Shopping Plaza, Rand and Central roads; and an application by First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Chicago to open an office on Mall Drive, Schaumburg.

9c a share net loss for General Employment

Herbert Imhoff, chairman and president of General Employment Enterprises Inc., announced a net loss for the third quarter and first nine months of fiscal 1975.

Revenues in the third quarter ended June 30 totaled $1,872,508 compared to $2,854,885 in the same period of 1974. The company recorded a net loss of $84,106, or 9 cents a share before a credit of $86,140.

For the nine months ended June 30, revenues dropped 21 per cent to $6,562,880 from $8,351,168 a year earlier. A loss of $172,394 or 18 cents a share was reported. The figure compares to 1974 earnings before an extraordinary item of $322,529 or 33 cents a share. Imhoff predicts an earnings turnaround in the fourth quarter.

The firm has an office in Palatine.

UOP gets grant to study synthetic oil

The Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) announced a $369,914 grant to UOP Inc., Des Plaines, to evaluate the refining of coal-derived synthetic crude oils to higher grade products.

The aim of the project is to determine whether coal-liquefaction products can be refined into the variety of products now produced from petroleum.

The federal agency will provide UOP with samples of coal-derived synthetic crude oils produced in eight liquefaction processes. The Des Plaines company will estimate the results of processing the liquids in current refineries.

Herald opinion

Meyer should end conflicts

Mayor Roland J. Meyer of Rolling Meadows apparently is unconcerned about the possible conflict of interest with his business ventures and his role as the city's top official.

We believe his attitude can only breed distrust among the people he represents in Rolling Meadows, and we urge him to divest his interests in potentially conflicting businesses.

Meyer's latest venture is XYZ Disposal Inc., a garbage collection service which has contracts with several city businessmen. These businesses need licenses from the City of Rolling Meadows and are subject to scrutiny and inspection.

Regardless of how honorable Meyer's intentions, there simply is too much room for speculation, rumor and innuendo.

One alderman has publicly blasted Meyer, saying it is "certainly not moral or ethical for him to use his office or the knowledge gained in that office to better himself financially." Other aldermen have been silent on the issue or contend the mayor would not use his clout in soliciting garbage business.

Compounding the problem, Meyer has refused to name the businesses he contracts with or even the number of clients.

One competitor for garbage business in Rolling Meadows charges that Meyer is using the implied power of his office to gain new business. We have no reason to believe Meyer is directly influencing city merchants, but it is conceivable that businessmen themselves might try to gain the mayor's favor by doing business with him.

Further, the City of Rolling Meadows has its own garbage collection system that is subsidized with tax dollars and operated by city employes. Meyer, then, might be considered to be competing with the city itself for garbage business.

There are too many eyebrow-raising questions about this entire affair which make it undesirable for Meyer or any other public officials to be involved.

This is the second time Meyer has become involved in a business which has made some local citizens and officials look toward him with distrust. Last year, Meyer established Midwest Environmental Systems Inc., a firm selling garbage equipment. It was later discovered that Meyer's clients toured the public works garage and that city equipment was used for sales demonstrations.

Meyer should know better than to place himself in these precarious positions. He has too much to lose in the eyes of the people he represents.

Gas price 'solution' still isn't enough

Illinois drivers have won only a minor victory against the welter of confusing price signs that greet us every time we approach a service station.

Signs in front of gas stations usually do not advertise the true pump price of a gallon of gasoline; rather the pre-sales tax price per gallon is written in large, bold letters, with small print underneath which declares, "plus tax."

Now, two branches of state government and three gasoline wholesalers have announced a partial solution. Gas dealers now have two options (which resolves a lawsuit filed by the wholesalers). They may:

- Post the complete price, with a note underneath which reads, "all taxes included," or
- Post the price with the sales tax figures directly underneath. The motorist must add the two figures by himself.

We find the "solution" to be half-baked, at best . . .

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 27 — British Gov. Eden deplored the lack of any British forces to support the loyalists and reported many of the latter were leaving America, including the Rev. Jonathan Boucher who had taught Washington's step-son.

Poor Rollie doesn't make much as mayor.
Maybe we should throw a little garbage his way.

Food price codes spark action

Fence post
letters to the editor

To all Des Plaines consumers:

Did you know there are changes being planned at the local supermarkets? Have you noticed a new symbol appearing on the labels of the foods you buy? This symbol, the Universal Product Code (U.P.C.), will be "read" by laser scanners attached to each cash register. The code will identify the product to a computer which will instruct the cash register what price each item is selling for at the time. This process will take only seconds. The cashier need push no buttons.

The supermarkets are excited about this revolutionary equipment which will be helpful with inventory control and marketing trends. With the use of the system, individual item pricing will be unnecessary because the U.P.C. is all that is needed to determine the price of a product. The supermarkets seem to be encouraging state and local governments to pass laws which will require the prices to be stamped on the products they sell. With prices no longer appearing on each item, we will be unable to make price comparisons of many kinds.

First, it will be difficult to comparison shop for the brand offering the best price per ounce — unless we want to spend time running up and down the aisles trying to keep track of all the prices from the shelf tags. I'm sure we've all had experience with illegible, missing, or inaccurate shelf tags.

Second, we won't be able to compare the price of an item with that charged by the computer. The price, remember, will have been left behind on the shelf tag. We will have to trust the computer to be error-free.

Third, and I think most frightening, is that we won't be able to keep track of pricing trends. When we bring home a can of tuna, we won't be able to compare its price with that of a can we bought two weeks ago because neither will have the price on it. If we are unaware of price increases, we certainly can't complain about them.

The Des Plaines City Council is considering passing an ordinance requiring local supermarkets to keep the prices on. It is imperative that Des Plaines consumers let their aldermen know how they feel. The time to act is now.

Carol McGrath

The chairman of the Des Plaines Chamber of Commerces retail committee has asked the city to delay action on an ordinance which would require supermarkets to price all products, even if a computerized checkout system is used. "We want to be sure if this is adopted that it will be beneficial to the citizens of Des Plaines, who are consumers and our customers, and not prove to be restrictive in nature," he said.

If the chamber of commerce wants to know what is beneficial to me as a consumer, it is this. To know exactly what an item costs, to be able to compare its value with an item of comparable quality, to be able to select the better value and to be sure that the price charged is what is marked on the item. Anything less is a disservice.

The City Council's code and judiciary committee held meetings where the pros and cons of the computerized system were discussed. Attending these meetings were supermarket officials, an official of the Retail Clerks Union and most importantly some concerned consumers. Everyone had an opportunity to speak. The city council voted in favor of having an ordinance drafted by the city attorney. This ordinance should closely follow the City of Chicago's ordinance which was championed by consumer advocates and by the director of consumer affairs for the City of Chicago.

As both a consumer and alderman of the city I can see no legitimate reasons for the delay of this ordinance.

'Guard home rule'

An open letter to the residents of Arlington Heights.

I have been distressed to read in The Herald that a group of citizens, concerned about the approval of the proposed stadium, were circulating petitions to hold a special election to revoke Arlington Heights' home rule powers that were granted by the 1970 Constitution of Illinois.

The proper course of action would have been, instead, to circulate petitions to place the stadium question before the voters of Arlington Heights. I would support such action. Whether you are for or against the stadium, you should know that the village needs to expand its tax base in order to continue to give the level of services that it does. Home rule is invaluable in this regard. Through our home rule powers we can levy hotel taxes, race track parking taxes and possibly a tax on winnings at the track, just to mention a few. There are many other advantages to being a home rule unit of government.

Efforts to revoke the home rule status of Arlington Heights should have been turned directly to establishing a referendum on the stadium question instead. Anything less is an insult to the intelligence of the voters of Arlington Heights, as well as an assault on the strength of our village government.

FBI 'authority' fading

by TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON — When former Attorney General William Saxbe was introduced to a California-based FBI agent last autumn the first thing he said, even before he said hello, was: "Where's Patty?"

Today he and the rest of the nation continue to wonder. Eighteen months after the kidnapping of Patty Hearst, the rich lass since gone wrong, the case remains enigmatic; "We don't know where she is," the searchers say, "and in fact the only thing we do know, and we know it all too well, is where she isn't."

Not that searchers haven't been trying. Charles Bates, the FBI special agent who directs the hunt, says at least three dozen federal officers have been on the case full time in California alone. Hundreds of other law enforcement people have contributed time and effort throughout the United States and in neighboring countries.

And of course the full resources of the overall FBI have been employed, including many of the 18,500 employes, some of the 50 million index information cards, and a few of the 160 million fingerprints. Federal authorities say the total cost of the investigation has been sizeable, even excessive, "millions and millions." Yet no Patty.

Why? The question is being asked more and more by Americans confused by the odds. As one angry citizen has put it in a letter to FBI Director Clarence Kelley: "How is it that your agency, which has a $450 million budget, plus what you say are the best gumshoes in the world, can't locate one tiny woman?" FBI insiders say there have been hundreds of similar public inquiries over the months. "Each time we announce that the crime rate has gone up," says an agent, "we get letters about Patty Hearst. People obviously wonder what we can do about big crime when we can't do much about her."

Apparently, the public inquiries are beginning to sting. FBI agents, at Director Kelley's lead, are responding to criticism with some criticism of their own. Kelley set the new tone in a recent speech in which he suggested that criminal investigations have of late been sorely hamstrung by changing attitudes toward police activity. He said the restrictions put on many old and reliable police methods have blunted enforcement effectiveness.

He called, essentially, for a return of such measures as wiretapping without encumbering court approvals, noting: "We must be willing to surrender a small measure of our liberties to preserve the great bulk of them."

Picking up on this, Kelley's agents have expanded the theme. Bates, for one, says that changing attitudes toward the police have actually prevented him from finding fugitive Hearst. Not only is he not allowed some old investigative techniques — such as secretly opening people's mail — but the public has even denied its cooperation. "To date," he says, "we've interviewed over 27,000 people concerning Patty Hearst. Many have cooperated, but others have not. If we had the cooperation of all, if some of them who knew things would have helped us, we'd have solved the case long ago."

No doubt both Kelley and Bates have points. Public cooperation with law enforcement agencies isn't a shadow what it was, say, when Congress and the Justice Department would look the other way as J. Edgar Hoover ordered burglaries in the name of domestic security. Today a good deal of public sentiment, perhaps too much, parallels that of Jack Scott, thought to have lines of communication with Patty Hearst, yet for reasons of conscience opposed to any idea of assisting U.S. authority. Reasons of conscience? Scott's views is that law breakers in America today are morally preferable to the law enforcers.

But if Scott's opinion of the way things are is clearly myopic, the fact he is not alone in his thinking is perhaps the ultimate reason police can't catch Patty Hearst, or many other crooks for that matter (only 20 per cent of reported crimes are cleared by arrest).

To get public cooperation police must first have public confidence. And they won't get either by reverting back, as Clarence Kelley wishes, to times when cops outwitted crooks by being even more crooked.

Where's Patty? She's harbored in a large segment of the American society which believes that if authority becomes abusive it is to be resisted. Pity more FBI agents are not there also.

RESIDENTS OF a semi-rural area near Schaumburg Airport are concerned about the lack of railroad signals at Rodenburg Road where a pickup truck driven by Rick Haverkampt, Streamwood, was struck Tuesday by an eastbound Milwaukee Road commuter train. Railroad officials say electronic signaling equipment can be installed with federal funding if a nearby village or township petitions the Interstate Commerce Commission for the equipment, estimated to cost $50,000 to $60,000.

Streamwood man hurt in truck-train crash

A Streamwood man was injured Tuesday morning when the pickup truck he was driving was struck by a Milwaukee Road passenger train at the Rodenburg Road crossing west of Schaumburg Airport.

Rick Haverkampt, 35, of 407 Tanglewood Dr., was listed in fair condition Tuesday at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village. He suffered a broken leg and arm and numerous cuts. The crossing is at the top of a steep incline, and high weeds grow along the crossing.

The DuPage County crossing, which does not have crossing gates or electric warning signals, was the scene last winter of a fatal accident. In that mishap, two Streamwood youths were killed when their car was crushed by a passenger train.

Authorities said the accident occurred about 11:30 p.m. when the eastbound commuter train struck the left side of the truck, northbound on Rodenburg Road.

THE PICKUP TRUCK, owned by Marklund Homes, Bloomingdale, was knocked clear of the tracks, and Haverkampt was apparently thrown from the vehicle. He was found lying in a ditch.

Schaumburg paramedics treated Haverkampt at the scene and took him to the hospital.

After the mishap, the train, which sustained only minor damage, continued to Chicago. No passenger injuries were reported, a Milwaukee Road spokesman said.

Mel McNichols, assistant signal engineer for the railroad, said electric signals could be installed at the crossing "if a public agency, village or township" petitions the Interstate Commerce Commission for the devices.

This would make the project eligible for federal funding for the equipment which he estimated would cost between $50,000 and $60,000.

Women and children first

If a parent dies . . .

by JULIE MARTOCCIO

Dear Attorney Martoccio,

I am writing you this morning on impulse about a problem which has been bothering me for sometime. Your helpful reply to the questions discussed in today's Buffalo Grove Herald inspired me to hope that you may be able to help me also.

My husband and I have identical wills, each leaving all assets to the surviving partner.

In the event of our simultaneous deaths or death of surviving partner, my husband's mother is named executrix of our children, but because of failing health, she wishes to be relieved of this responsibility.

Hence my question: What can we do to protect our children in the event that we are not here to do so?

OUR ONLY CLOSE relative, a brother, has children of his own and is not financially equipped to handle the responsibilities of our estate which is a modest one consisting of almost no liquid assets such as savings, stocks, bonds but mainly our house (mortgaged), household furnishings and a collection of valuable recordings and books. My husband's life insurance names me beneficiary with my mother-in-law as alternate in the event that my husband and I die simultaneously.

The ideal solution to this problem would be that somehow the children could remain in this house together at least to finish their local schooling. There must be appropriate steps we should be taking now to relieve my mother-in-law's mind and to protect our children. We'd greatly appreciate any suggestions you can offer. — K.R.

Dear K.R.,

There is no possible way to plan a "foolproof" future since no one can anticipate life's variables. The best we can do is what you are doing — studying the alternatives and selecting those that best suit your present circumstances. While I believe everyone should plan ahead, especially where there are children, I do think that you are worrying needlessly.

In your letter (which I regret I had to condense) you indicated the musical training and talent of your three children and their potential for obtaining scholarships if needed because of their respective I.Q.'s. Assuming that you and your husband are in good health, there seems to be no imminent need to get your affairs straightened out. All these facts are in your favor. Now let's consider the alternatives. If one of you dies before the other, there is no problem of the survivor caring for the children. Furthermore, statistically speaking, the chances of simultaneous deaths are slim.

• In three years, your eldest child will be of legal age at which time she could be chosen as guardian and executor and named as such in your will.

• On the other hand, if you feel that you need to select a guardian and executor immediately, I suggest you reconsider the brother you mentioned. He need not have the financial means to support the children. While your estate is not large, your major assets, the interest you've built up in your home and your insurance policy could provide (at least) the basic needs for your children who could certainly supplement the amount by part-time employment even if they were still in school.

You needn't fear either that your children's welfare would not be protected. (Although you did not indicate that your brother is an irresponsible person, I'm assuming he is not because you did not mention that as a fact, but only that he is financially unable to support anyone other than his own family.)

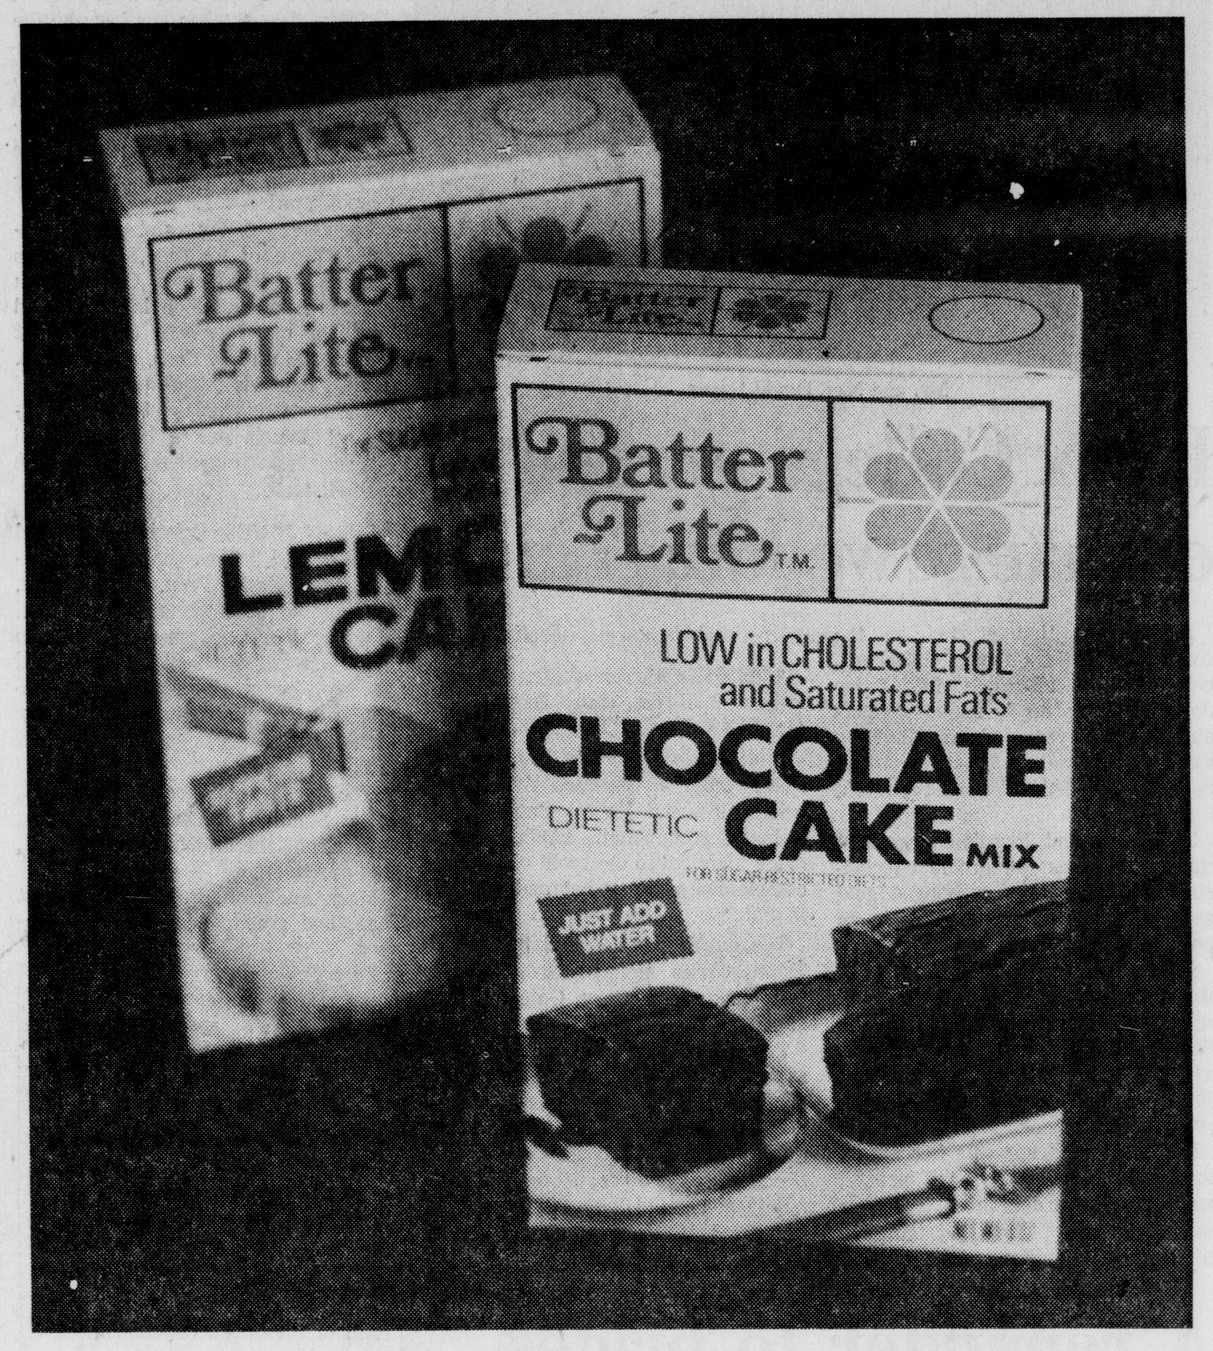
• Guardians and executors of minor children must give the court an accounting of every cent at specific times. Any breach of this trust is immediately corrected!

I once heard a judge sentence a mother who was named guardian to jail for dissipating funds left to her children. Only the pleas of her second husband and his promise to see that she replaced the funds kept her from serving time.

• I know of no "agency" other than possibly a church organization that could look after your children's interests or guide them should they be left alone. I do, however, know of instances where children were allowed to remain in their own homes to fend for themselves when an adult was appointed to supervise them until one of them reached 18.

As you said, "I suppose the only advice you can safely give is to stay healthy a few more years." I certainly hope you do!

(Readers are invited to submit questions regarding legal problems of women and children. Names and facts that would identify the writer are withheld on request. Attorney Martoccio's column is to inform and not advise. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)



Chemist has sweetened life for diabetics, heart patients

by BARBARA LADD

It's only a small box of cake mix. But it brings "sweets" into the lives of heart and diabetic patients and satisfaction into the eyes of the man whose genius invented it.

For the last 25 years, Sol Radlove, Wheeling, spent his free time developing, testing and perfecting a sugar-free low-cholesterol cake. Last November his chocolate cake, under the brand name of Batter-Lite, made it onto the market.

"When I first started, the cakes didn't even rise. It's been an evolution of sweat, blood and tears," he said.

RADLOVE, 65, is a retired research chemist. Until a heart condition forced him to leave his job at Continental Can Co. a few years ago, he had been the scientist behind 25 major nationwide patents and author of nine published technical papers.

During his successful career with several companies he had been working on his cake mix.

"All of my background flowed," he explained, reaching for his pipe. "It cross-fertilized itself. A lot of what I learned earlier in my working career I can use now with my cakes."

Recently, Radlove's lemon-flavored cake mix was marketed. He said he would like to develop spice and white cake and he's been experimenting with sugar-free low-cholesterol cookies, too.

"THIS IS one of a few instances where the products are ethical," he said. "And if the cake mix goes over from a business point of view, I'll be tickled pink."

The "business point of view" has, so far, been the big headache for Radlove.

Beginning about five years ago, he took his cake mix to the major food companies, including General Mills, Pillsbury and Keebler, and to dietetic food manufacturers. No one wanted to invest in it.

There were two main reasons, Radlove explained. For one thing, there is not a big demand for a dietetic cake because the number of heart and diabetic patients isn't large.

"THE BIG companies are interested in volume," he sighed. "They don't want to market something only a segment of the population will buy."

The dietetic companies were disillusioned with other sugar-free cake mixes, he continued. No one believed his product was good.

Finally, he gave up on the food companies. His nephew, a patent attorney in Wisconsin, now markets the cake as a sidelight to his own business. And the product is good.

When there is enough demand, 1000 pound lots are mixed at a factory in Wisconsin and taken to retail stores by independent distributors.

In this area, Batter-Lite cake mix can be found at some Jewel stores and at the Kohl's market in Mount Prospect.

THE CAKE mix sells for $1.19 or $1.29 a box, depending on the store.

"It's expensive," Radlove said. "But everything in it is top quality."

Costs have tripled since the retired chemist began working on the cake. The special FDA-approved ingredients were not cheap to start with, he pointed out.

"Our timing is not so good," he commented. "If we can survive now in this economy, we should be better at a later date."

But the money isn't important to Radlove and his wife, Rose. "It's better to do something useful and worthwhile in your lifetime. . ." he said.

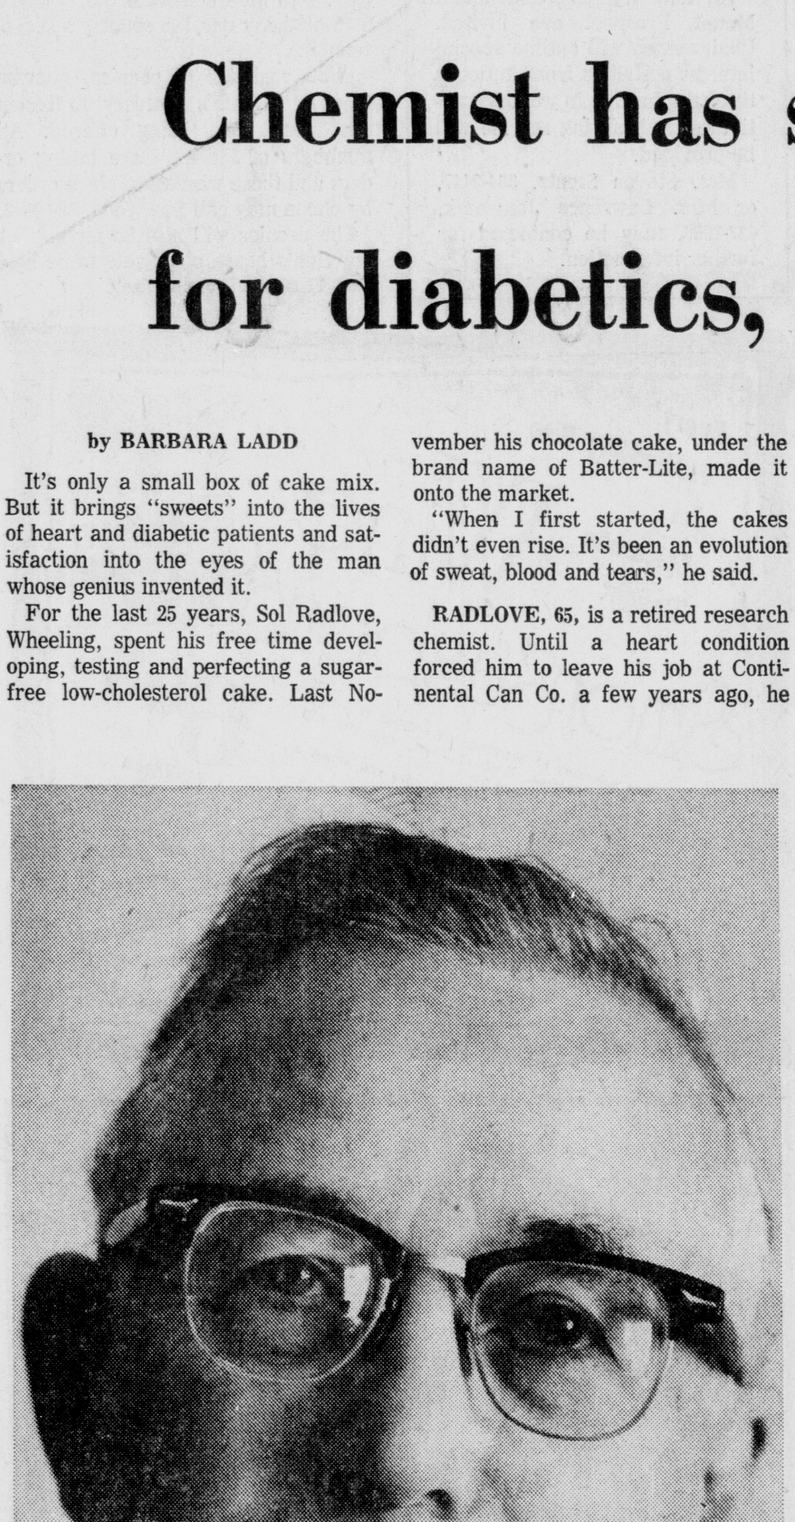
"Too many work only for money."

Radlove is an active member of the American Association of Retired Persons and is on the Advisory Committee for Senior Citizens at Harper College.

EVERY WEEK Radlove receives a few letters from people who have purchased his cake mix. All of the letters praise the cake, and many ask whether other sugar-free low-cholesterol products are available from Batter-Lite.

One letter mentioned that the cake was her husband's first in four years, another stated that it was her adolescent daughter's first birthday cake and a post card told Radlove, "Thank you for listening."

"We may not make any money," Radlove shrugged his shoulders. "But we may make a lot of diabetics and heart patients happy."



NOW RETIRED from a career in research chemistry, Sol Radlove, Wheeling, continues to develop new flavors for his dietetic cake mix.

Summer place

by KAY MARSH

It's hard to leave a summer place. In fact, it's so hard that it takes us about two days to get away from Smith Mountain Lake in Virginia and on the road back to Illinois. In addition to packing up for home, everything we leave behind has to be wrapped up, locked up, boarded up or otherwise made as secure as possible for all the months that we'll be here instead of there.

Some of these packing chores have real "Candid Camera" possibilities. Did you, for instance, ever try to deflate a heavy, four-man inflatable boat and stuff it back into a box roughly the size of a bed pillow?

Then there are all the major decisions. Shall we finish the ice cream and risk car sickness, or throw it away? And wouldn't it be nice if the last half-inch or so of ketchup, cooking oil and such would simply self-destruct half an hour before departure?

Fortunately, there's always one thing you never have to pack when you come home from a vacation. That, of course, is your memories.

Maybe you're an intellectual type who remembers great moments: masterpieces in museums, awesome wonders of nature and such. Alas, my memories tend more toward trivia.

I DID TAKE up a new hobby this summer: collecting the messages on T-shirts. This is getting to be almost as much a medium of communication and a platform for personal philosophy as the ever-present bumper sticker.

Yes, I still collect bumper stickers, too. My favorite addition from this summer reads "10 S N E 1?" And I'm sure you'll figure it out sooner than I did.

Signs offer other interesting possibilities. Who could forget the music store billboard that offfered guitar lessons, promising music that was "finger-pickin' good"? Then there was the supper club featuring the music of the "Post Raisin Band." I have no idea whether they were any good or not, but the name was mighty tempting.

As you've probably noticed, budget motels are springing up everywhere — and a welcome sight they are in this recession year. The ones we've had any dealings with have been quite satisfactory. However, I was sorry we weren't in the right place at the right time to try one that invited us to "Sleep Cheap." That's what I call good, honest ad copy.

As always, we tried to "Eat Cheap," or for as little as possible. This gets a little harder every year, but cafeterias (notably the S&W cafeterias in Virginia and elsewhere) make it a little easier. So do picnics, if you can find a pleasant spot. (We found a fine one in a park at Richmond, Ind. It's a bit off the Interstate, but worth a small detour if you have a little extra time.)

AND SPEAKING of eating, bringing back a new recipe or two is a welcome bonus from every trip. So is the acquisition of a new household hint or so.

For example, on Virginia's Eastern Shore a man who inspects oyster beds for the Commonwealth of Virginia told me how to freeze oysters. He says you should freeze them as usual in a container, then freeze another layer of water on top, much as you'd put a layer of paraffin on a jar of jelly. According to him, this prevents freezer burn and keeps the oysters fresher longer. He adds that you can do the same thing with fish.

My other household hint for Summer '75 comes from a Richmond woman noted for her green thumbs. (And the plural is deliberate — would you believe 62 plants on one small porch?) Anyway, she suggests that to transport a plant cutting, wrap the end in wet paper towels, then pop the whole thing into a plastic bag. Blow up the bag as you would a balloon, then twist the end shut as tightly as possible. Cuttings packed this way, she promises, can easily travel for a day or so and still arrive almost as good as new.

But of course the best part of any vacation is getting back. I didn't arrive here feeling "almost as good as new," but it is great to be home. Hope that your summer has been a fine one, too, and that you're looking forward to autumn as much as I am.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hayes

Knox College graduates exchange wedding bands

A romance that started on the campus of Knox College, Galesburg, culminated in marriage Aug. 2 for Joyce Moeller of Arlington Heights and David Hayes of Avon, Ill. They exchanged vows in a 5 p.m. ceremony in Good Shepherd Methodist Church, Park Ridge.

To complement Joyce's engagement ring, which was the groom's grandmother's, the couple exchanged gold wedding bands they purchased in an antique jewelry store.

Joyce, daughter of the Robert E. Moellers, made her own gown of white summer satin with chiffon cape sleeves. With it she wore a picture hat trimmed with chiffon and white and pink roses and carried white orchids, pink roses and stephanotis.

Her maid of honor was her sister, Joanne, who wore a floral printed beige gown with chiffon cape sleeves and a lavender picture hat trimmed in matching chiffon. She carried purple orchids and stephanotis.

THE GROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Hayes, chose David Wingate, Des Moines, as best man.

Mrs. Linda Hendricks, the groom's sister from Scottsdale, Ariz., was bridesmaid and Robert Babbitt, Galesburg, groomsman. Linda wore a dress identical to the maid of honor's, complemented by a hat and bouquet in pink.

The guests were seated by Robert Trumpy, Des Moines; Greg Swider, Galesburg; and Greg Galemo, Chicago.

The bridal pair greeted 150 guests at a reception at Itasca Country Club and after a brief honeymoon are making their home in Tulsa, Okla. Joyce works there for the Williams Co. and David manages a book store.

Both graduated from Knox in 1974, and the bride is also a graduate of Prospect High School.

A reminder to brides

If wedding bells will soon be ringing in your family, we want to hear them, too.

The Herald reminds brides-to-be of the deadlines in effect for reporting wedding news. Full information is printed on forms available in all the Herald offices.

For detailed wedding story (including gown descriptions) information is due within three weeks following wedding date. Information received in Herald office after three weeks and up to five weeks following wedding date will be used for a brief story or caption.

Accompanying picture should be a black and white glossy close-up photo (bouquet and up) of bridal pair or bride alone. At the discretion of the editors and the Herald photo department, color photos may or may not be used, depending on color tones, contrast and clarity. Small snapshots are not acceptable.

We suggest the bride or some member of the family select a photo for the newspaper immediately upon receiving photographer's proof. Better yet — have the photographer make a selection and send it immediately to the Herald office. Any delay may mean missing the deadline.

If your photographer cannot comply with deadlines, write-up will be published without a photo providing information is in the Herald office before the deadline.

The bride who wishes her photo returned may pick it up at the Herald office at 217 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights, or send along a self-ad-this news.

There is no charge for publishing dressed, stamped envelope.

Coral used as mold to make human bone

Two Penn state scientists and a medical student will be issued a patent governing the use of a South Pacific coral as a mold for making human bone, cartilage and even coronary artery replacements.

The process is an outgrowth of the discovery by a Penn State marine geologist, Dr. John Weber, that the skeletal microstructure of certain corals mimics human bone and tissues.

THE SCIENTISTS believe that devices made by casting the coral in very strong materials could provide victims of arthritis with replacement joints that readily fuse with natural bone and will not easily wear out. Dr. Weber, Dr. Eugene W. White, a materials scientist, and Ronald White (no relation), medical student at Syracuse, aave been named coinventors in the patent documents.

In the new process, a piece of coral skeleton is first machined to the desired shape. It is then cast in a wax like material. The skeleton is then dissolved, leaving a negative copy of the original coral.

This is cast again in a strong synthetic material like epoxy. The result is a very strong, completely synthetic unit that mimics human bone in its ultrastructure. Its network of pores is impossible to duplicate in steel or other metals now used to make prosthetic devices.

RECENTLY, THE two scientists were able to cast short sections of the coral into a soft rubbery material. Because of the extraordinary porosity of the material it readily infuses with blood and becomes a true graft.

The two believe the sections might be used to bypass clotted or otherwise defective lengths of heart arteries.

Thus, persons with high risk of coronary thrombosis might be helped.

Wed in rainbow setting

All the shades of the rainbow appeared in Trinity Lutheran Church, Des Plaines, during the 4:30 p.m. wedding of Candy March, daughter of the Frank E. Marches of Des Plaines, and Frank Frankini Jr., son of the Frank Frankinis of Elk Grove Village.

Eight attendants preceded the bride down the aisle on Aug. 2, each in a pastel colored gown with matching picture hat and carrying a bouquet to match her ensemble.

Maid of honor Sue Curtis, Des Plaines, wore a lilac shade of polyester knit with a lace-edged capelet. The bridesmaids were Paula Frankini, sister of the groom, in green; Jackie Walsh, Elk Grove, pink; Michele Robinson, Mount Prospect, blue; Gini Hamlin, Kissimee, Fla., apricot; and Sue Fedrowitz, Des Plaines, yellow.

THE TWO flower girls, appearing in aqua organdy dresses and carrying rainbow colored daisies with white roses in white baskets, were the bride's twin sisters, 5-year-old Janeen and Jennifer March.

Candy chose a Chantilly lace bridal gown with six tiers of ruffles cascading to the floor over a hoop skirt and ending with a six-foot train in back. A lace headpiece trimmed with seed pearls held her fingertip mantilla veil in place, and she carried white roses, carnations, stephanotis and baby's breath interspersed with daisies in rainbow shades.

Groomsmen included Mike Millner, Jeff Stewart, Mike Sronkowski and Tony Tringali, all of Elk Grove, and the groom's cousin, Bill Sargis, Chicago. Jeff Schroeder, Topeka, Kan., was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frankini Jr.

The couple's brothers, Jim March and Glen Frankini, ushered and Candy's brother, Tom, was altar boy.

A SPECIAL guest at the wedding and the reception which followed at Casa Royale was the bride's 93-year-old great-grandmother, Mrs. Josephine Fritschow of Cedar Point, Ill.

The newlyweds are living in Champaign, Ill., since returning from a two-week motor trip to Florida. Frank is a junior majoring in engineering at the University of Illinois. Both he and his bride graduated from Elk Grove High School.

Home lighting

Well planned fluoresdent lighting in the home is a boon to energy conscious consumers, according to housing and home furnishings specialist Jane Berry.

"For years fluorescent lighting has been standard in commerce and industry because of its efficiency," says Mrs. Berry.

"Now recent tests in a model home which used more efficient fluorescent lamps instead of incandescent lighting showed a 45 per cent savings in electricity costs," she says. (UPI)

Reader liked prune cake, asks recipe be repeated

The homeline
by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Some time ago you had a "sauce topped prune cake." I made it and it was the best cake I ever tasted. I wanted to make it again, but I've misplaced the recipe. Would you consider reprinting it? — Mrs. Clayton Smith

In this case yes, because it is a superb cake and many others might like to try it. It comes from one of the country's famed hostelries, Beaumont Inn at Harrodsburg, site of the first permanent settlement in Kentucky.

Here's the recipe provided by the Inn's owners: Mix together three eggs beaten whole, one cup vegetable oil, one and one-half cups sugar, one cup buttermilk (in which is dissolved one and one-half teaspoons soda), one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon allspice, one teaspoon vanilla, two cups flour, one cup prunes (cooked and cut) and one cup chopped nuts. Pour into two 9-inch layer pans and bake at 300 degrees for 45 minutes.

While the cake is baking, make the following sauce: Stir in a saucepan one cup sugar, one-half cup buttermilk (in which is dissolved one-half teaspoon soda), one tablespoon white syrup, three-fourths stick butter and one-half teaspoon vanilla. Boil about one minute and pour over the cake while it's still warm.

Dear Dorothy: My maple chairs need refinishing. Is there a way to do it other than removing the varnish and starting all over again? — Mrs. William H. Arnold

You can change light to dark without starting all over, but you can't change dark to light. If you like the antique finish, it ought to do fine on your chairs without starting all over.

Dear Dorothy: I did a successful dyeing job and a friend warned me it shouldn't be laundered with other clothes. Is she right? — Iris Baker

Yes.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Ford, 17 governors to meet on gas shortage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will meet with 17 governors to seek ways of easing a record natural gas shortage expected to strike the United States this winter, the White House said Tuesday.

Administration officials said Ford wants to outline the impending shortage state-by-state for the governors most of whom represent states likely to be among the hardest hit, and then throw the floor open for ideas about how to deal with the problem.

Officials have predicted no shortages this winter for Northern Illinois residents unless the federal government allocates gas supplies to other "have not" states.

Governors from the 14 gas consuming states likely to be hardest hit by shortages — California, Delaware, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, New York, New Jersey North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia — were invited to the White House meeting Thursday.

IN ADDITION, a White House spokesman said the meeting will include the governors of Texas and Louisiana, the nation's main producers of natural gas, and Gov. Thomas Salmon of Vermont, head of the energy committee of the National Governors Conference.

Ford will decide what new natural gas policies to adopt within a day or two after his meeting with the governors, a spokesman said.

Although Ford is about to wipe out the present comprehensive federal controls over petroleum allocation and pricing, administration sources said he was seriously considering a request to Congress for authority to maintain through next winter the government's regulation of propane allocation and prices.

Propane is the bottled gas widely used to heat homes in farming areas. It also is an alternative to which users of natural gas from pipelines might try to turn in the event their supplies were cut off.

Federal energy experts expect natural gas supplies to fall about 15 per cent short of the nation's needs this winter, creating a shortage about 50 per cent worse than the one last winter. That would make this winter the worst ever faced by U.S. gas consumers.

THE HEAD OF Ford's natural gas task force, Bruce Pasternack, told UPI the shortage will be felt most severely by industries that burn gas. But he said there is "a remote possibility . . . in the mid-Atlantic states" of residential curtailments as well, despite the high priority given to residential use.

North Carolina is likely to be the hardest hit state in the nation because it is served by only one pipeline, and that pipeline has serious supply problems of its own, Pasternak said.

New Jersey, Ohio and Pennsylvania also rank among the states facing the worst potential shortages, he said, and "every state from New York to South Carolina on the East Coast is going to have a problem." Less-serious shortages appear likely in California, Iowa, Kentucky, Missouri and West Virginia.

Imported oil costs up, buying down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government reported Tuesday that Americans paid over $600 million more for the 1.2 billion barrels of foreign oil they bought through July of this year even though imports decreased slightly during that seven-month period.

The Commerce Dept., in its monthly summary of U. S. export and import trade, said that total petroleum imports decreased by 3.5 per cent during the first seven months of 1975 in comparison with last year — from 1.259 billion barrels in 1974 to 1.218 billion barrels in 1975.

However, reflecting a 20 per cent growth in crude oil imports, the total cost of those foreign shipments increased by 4.5 per cent during that seven-month period — from $13.5 billion in 1974 to just over $14 billion this year.

Crude oil imports, mainly from such foreign sources as Canada, Nigeria, Iran and Venezuela, grew from 725,768,000 barrels between Jan. 1-July 31 of last year to 864,696,300 barrels during the same months this year.

The cost of foreign crude oil increased from $7.8 billion for the January-July period in 1974 to $10 billion during the same months in 1975.

However, the growth in the shipments of foreign crude oil was offset in volume, but not in the cost, by a 31 per cent decrease in the imports of residual fuel oil — from 306,289,000 barrels in January-July of 1974 to 211,912,600 barrels in 1975.

The cost of buying foreign residual fuel oil, mainly in Venezuela and other Caribbean sources, fell from almost $3 billion during the first seven months of 1974 to under $2.4 billion during the same period this year.

The Commerce Dept. report also showed that imports of partly refined petroleum, jet fuel, kerosene and distillate fuel oil decreased during the summer months of this year, while those of gasoline, propane gas and butane gas increased.

On the other hand, the American Petroleum Institute, which reflects the point of view of the private oil industry, reported that during the four-week period that ended Aug. 15 average crude oil imports into the U. S. were 4,375,000 barrels daily compared w8th 3,893,000 barrels per day for a comparable period last year.

API also reported that during the same four-week period, average daily imports of refined products, including residual fuel oil were 1,737,000 barrels compared with 2,947,000 barrels per day last year.

Tough to keep a secret with SEM around

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Like mail order houses and government agencies, science is making it harder and harder to keep anything about yourself secret.

But sometimes that invasion of privacy can work to your advantage — as in the case of a scientific device called SEM.

SEM gets its name from a scanning electron microscope that may someday be as common an investigative tool as fingerprinting.

It can thoroughly inspect anything from pollen grains to minute electronic components, said Jan Terry, Stanford Research Institute engineer.

And, like fingerprints, it provides a key to identification.

Recently, it meant freedom for one burglary suspect.

IN THAT CASE, SEM was used to help a law enforcement department. No traces of a burgled home, such as paint, could be found on tools belonging to a suspect.

The suspect was released.

And in a recent murder case in San Mateo County, Calif., the SEM confirmed that strands of hair found in a car trunk were similar to the victim's.

"All sorts of enforcement agencies will want access to SEM once they learn what it can do," said Terry.

SEM can magnify an area 20 to 100,000 times its size within seconds.

It can be used to photograph and X-ray objects to reveal identifying marks and chemical composition.

THUS, IT CAN reveal microscopic blood stains, soil or other key links between suspects and scenes of alleged crimes.

The FBI uses SEM. So does the Los Angeles County coroner's office.

SEM differs from ordinary microscopes in this way:

Ordinary microscopes use light to magnify their objects. SEM shoots electrons at the object down a column equipped with three lenses.

On one screen, SEM shows a clear television image of the object.

On another, the X-ray component shows the object's chemical breakdown.

SEM has been a powerful laboratory device for years, highly valuable in scientific studies.

STANFORD USES it for many activities, from finding flaws in semiconductor components to examining the antenna hairs of mosquitos.

In law enforcement work, it can match up tiny traces of metal for positive identification of bullets.

The research institute is a nonprofit organization that performs contract studies for worldwide clients in government, business and industry. But, as the case of the released burglary suspect indicated, SEM may be a tool for helping the man on the street as well if he gets into trouble with the law.

Got a lawn problem?

Grass thinning out . . . weeds starting to take over . . . brown patches here and there . . . too much shade?

Then read this!!!

Twenty three years ago Merion Bluegrass was introduced to the American home owner. We were enthusiastic about Merion because of its resistance to leafspot, a grass disease that was quite common and a great bother in Kentucky bluegrass lawns. Merion had other interesting qualities. It made a dense carpet like lawn, it was dark green in color and seemed to withstand dry weather better than grasses then available. Because of Merion's apparent superiority, we put most of our production in Merion Bluegrass.

Within a few years we became disillusioned with some of Merion's characteristics. We learned that it was susceptible to powdery mildew when planted in lightly shaded areas. We found a chemical to combat mildew at a low cost. We were again disappointed to learn that Merion just would not thrive in extremely hot weather or warm climates. Finally we discovered that Merion was prone to a disease known as smut for which there was no cure. We realized that, at best, Merion in many cases was only a six to seven year lawn grass.

As a result of these disappointments we set out to discover a satisfactory grass that was disease resistant, shade tolerant, could withstand rough usage and still be beautiful in appearance. We set aside 14 acres of land to be used only for lawn grass research. We built a greenhouse so that grass studies could be conducted the year around. A scientific laboratory was set up for the purpose of studying grass diseases, cross-breeding and numerous other phases of grass culture. A Doctor of Plant Pathology was placed in charge of our research efforts. Exploration trips were made all over America, Canada, England, South America and other locations in search of outstanding grasses.

As a result of this research activity, we developed and found over 1,000 strains or species of promising lawn grasses. Two of these discoveries are available to you today. They are WARREN'S® A-20 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS and WARREN'S® A-34 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASSES BenSun Brand. Other new lawn grasses uncovered by this research will be made available as soon as they are tested by independent research organizations who have no financial interest in the sale of seed or sod.

WARREN'S A-20 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS is highly resistant to most grass diseases. It greens up earlier in the spring and stays green longer in the fall. It has a pleasant dark green color and makes a dense carpet like lawn that that can be mowed as low as one half of an inch . . . or up to two inches. It is rated first in overall performance by research organizations and universities that are doing lawngrass research.

WARREN'S A-34 KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS BenSun is the answer for problem lawns where dense shade make a decent lawn impossible. WARREN'S A-34 BenSun does well in up to 65% shade, yet thrives in open sunlight. It also carries a high performance rating by research organizations and universities.

WARREN'S A-20 and WARREN'S A-34 BenSun have been Performance Proven on tens of thousands of lawns, golf courses and athletic fields across the nation. Should you have a lawn problem, why not rip out that old lawn and replace it with either A-20 or A-34 BenSun. You will be pleased with the results.

For an excellent lawn next year, now is the time to plant sod or seed. Warren's A-20 sod and BenSun A-34 Sod or Seed planted in late summer or early fall developes a strong root system through the autumn and spring months to give you a carpet of exquisite green lawn next summer when you'll want your lawn to be at its peak.

WARREN'S A-20 is available as sod or sod plugs. WARREN'S A-34 BenSun is available as sod, sod plugs or seed. They may be obtained through your Garden Supply Dealer, Landscape Contractor or Nurseryman.

'Old age' setting in on Texas oil fields

DALLAS (UPI) — Texas oil fields are beginning to show their age.

They are slowing down and making the driller pay more and work harder for his return than the prospector in 1901 who sank a hole from which shot a black jet of crude oil that changed the state, the nation and the world.

With that Spindletop discovery a mile south of Beaumont near the Gulf of Mexico at the beginning of this century, Texas overnight became the world's petroleum giant just as the age of mechanization needed it most. The dimensions were staggering.

Within a year that one field produced more than the rest of the world combined.

FURTHER DISCOVERIES followed in thousands of geographical formations — until there was petroleum production in 21 of Texas' 254 counties accounting today for 40 per cent of the nation's crude oil production and more than 37 per cent of its natural gas.

Texas remains far and away the leading petroleum state. But a couple of years ago production began declining and indications are the slide is likely to continue.

The descent is not steep nor statewide. The rising price of oil has more than made up the difference in gross income to Texas producers taken as a whole.

But industry leaders are worried about long-range prospects because, although there still are boom areas, some fields are entering "old age" and loss of the depletion allowance has cut back exploration for new discoveries.

Oil production is full bore in Texas, no longer restricted as it was up to three years ago by order of the state railroad commission — in effect a control on supply and demand to the benefit of the industry. Now industry leaders say they want all the oil they can find.

BUT, ACCORDING to figures supplied by the industry-promoting Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Assn., Texas wells produced 11 million fewer barrels of crude oil in the first quarter of this year than last.

The estimated 3,265,000 barrels of oil Texas will produce daily in August will be nearly 79,000 a day less than a year ago.

Simple attrition accounts for at least part of the decline, producers say.

George P. Mitchell, president of the 10,000-member Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn., said a pattern of depletion is forming in Texas oil fields, most notably in East Texas: "They are beginning to show their age and new fields are not that big."

But with the price of oil remaining high, he said, "there are literally thousands of prospects to drill for oil and natural gas. There have been 200 prospects I couldn't drill in the last 25 years because of prices — now all are prospective areas."

THE INDUSTRY'S need of the moment, said Mitchell — or practically anyone else in the business — is the incentive to look harder and dig deeper for oil and gas.

"Most of our big discoveries were several years ago," the TIPRO chief said, and to take up the slack the industry must double its drilling activity and be prepared to pay for it. "We will have to spend $25 billion a year versus the $6 billion we spent last year," Mitchell predicts.

It is that kind of capital outlay in an already risky business which oilmen say diminishes the returns reflected in the oil arithmetic of multiplying barrels produced times an ever rising market price and getting a higher total every year.

It's also why they consider no less than hostile the act of Congress this year by which most oil companies lost the federal tax break formerly granted under the oil depletion allowance.

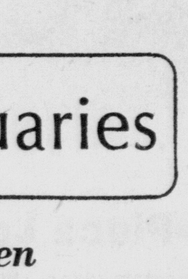
On Testing Patterns



by Ed Landwehr

Someone remarked at Landwehr's Home Appliances that they don't see the old test patterns on their TV screen anymore. Of course, any TV technician knows where the present testing patterns are and should have the equipment to check with. But, unknown to most viewers, the test pattern is being transmitted along with the broadcasting. If you roll down the vertical control you'll note a thick horizontal bar coming into view. This is the area where the coded signals can be checked for good TV and antenna reception.

When you phone 255-0700 for TV service, you can be assured that our modern testing instruments and experience will result in the best viewing your set can give. We've surprised many new customers. Try us.

'Fossil' radiation gives clue that big bang made universe

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A scientist at the University of California has found some "fossil" radiation in the world's atmosphere which may tell a lot about how the universe was formed.

The study, so far, backs up the theory that there was a big explosion about 10 billion years ago and that is where the earth and the moon and the stars began.

Prof. Paul Richards, a physicist at the university's Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory, says he has been able to measure the background radiation left over from that explosion by sending an instrument-packed balloon 23 miles up into the atmosphere.

EVEN AT THAT height, Richards said, he had to subtract a lot of other radiation sources before isolating what he believes are the left-over waves from the cosmic big bang.

According to modern cosmological theory, Richards said, the big explosion (what caused it is not known) resulted in protons, electrons and neutrons flying around each other. As the universe expanded and cooled to about 3,000 degrees above absolute zero, the matter combined into neutral hydrogen and helium and ceased to interact with the radiation.

What was left of the radiation scientists speculated, would have gradually changed so that now it would have the attributes of radiation produced by an object three degrees above absolute zero.

When, in 1965, scientists at Bell Telephone Laboratories unexpectedly discovered radiation like that, it got Richards interested in checking out the big bang theory further.

The problem was to isolate the infrared radiation because of all the other hotter radiation coming from the Earth and atmosphere.

HE USED A liquid helium cooled antenna to collect the radiation and a cooled infrared spectrometer to measure the spectrum. The cooling was necessary because the instruments themselves, like everything else, give off stronger radiation unless cooled to very low temperatures.

The device was flown last summer to an altitude of 23.4 miles at the National Center for Atmospheric Research at Palestine, Tex.

When the spectrum of radiation in the atmosphere was taken, it still required much "correcting" because of radiation emitted from oxygen, ozone and water molecules in the upper atmosphere.

Nevertheless, Richards said, measurements were made of infrared waves corresponding to a temperature of three degrees. This, he believes, further nails down the story of how the world began with a huge explosion 10 billion years ago.

Tourney trip experience of lifetime

by ART MUGALIAN

The Irving-Lake All-Star Babe Ruth Leaguers recently returned from a week in Seattle, where they watched the rain from their windows, took in the scenery of the Pacific Northwest and played three baseball games (winning one, losing two).

The Senior Babe Ruth League's national tournament provided these excellent opportunities for the boys of coach Lou Bocci's team, the champion of the midwest regional tourney in Ft. Knox, Ky. It was the first national tourney for the Irving-Lakers.

Although Irving-Lake bowed out of the competition quickly, the teen-age players will be able to chalk up an experience of a lifetime.

"You learn from different parts of the country," said infielder Jeff Ironside, a Conant grad who will start his sophomore year at Kent State University. "You learn a lot from the way people live. We met lots of great people in Kentucky and Seattle."

Jeff Ironside

Irving-Lake players thank contributors; see page 3

The Babe Ruth organization made arrangements for the players to stay with "foster parents" rather than in a Seattle hotel. More often than not, the "foster parents" were simply performing a community service; they had nothing to gain from harboring a couple of teen-age ballplayers for a week.

But they made some friends for life.

"Two kids would go to the parents' home right from the airport and they'd get three meals a day," said Marty Luquet, I-L shortstop. "The parents would drive them to the tournament and drive them back after the game. They drove them everywhere. It was great."

Lots of rain fell in Seattle — not enough to wash out the tourney, but enough to upset some of the players' sightseeing plans.

"It rained every day," Ironside said. "Even on days we played. Not the big stuff, just a drizzle. We were hoping to see the Space Needle but the day we were going out there, it was foggy and we wouldn't have been able to see anything."

Ironside and his teammates figured that the rain was an omen. Near-floods had delayed the Illinois and regional tournaments and the I-L players assumed that the rain was their own personal harbinger of good luck.

But such was not the case.

"We just didn't click out there," said Ironside.

"I was able to see that the kids were tense the first day of practice," said assistant coach Bob Barna, who is also president of the Irving-Lake team.

Barna said his players got over their jitters and performed well in an opening 7-1 victory. But a two-day wait through the rain seemed to take away the edge.

A hometown Seattle team beat I-L, 3-2, on Wednesday and defending champion Sugar Creek (Mo.) eliminated the Illinoisans later in the day with a 3-0 no-hitter.

"We didn't hit as well as we should have," Barna admitted. "By the time we got around to playing Sugar Creek, we were really flat. There was no doubt we were going to get beat."

"I don't even know the name of the guy who threw the no-hitter at us," said Dennis Luquet, Marty's brother and an assistant coach. "We don't want to find out."

"He threw lots of fastballs," Ironside offered.

The Irving-Lake team wouldn't have been able to take the trip to Seattle if Bocci and Barna hadn't been able to round up about $4,000 in airfare. They weren't too optimistic about their chances, but thanks to scores of interested local businessmen, the money was secured.

"I can't begin to tell you the num-

'Going to Court' favorite NCAA game

How powerful is Alabama's suit?

Mike Klein
Staff Sportswriter

There are many games being played within the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Games with bats and balls, fields and pools.

But the one which continually draws a larger share of attention features portfolios rather than play books and occurs before stern-faced men in robes, not to be confused with officials in striped shirts.

It's the game of Going to Court. And the NCAA just keeps going.

You might recall the college group suing basketball player Howard Porter who took his money and sprinted . . . but not before playing in NCAA championships for Villanova while under a professional contract.

And let's not overlook the great Ohio State-Minnesota legal entanglement which followed Bill Musselman's uncultured basketball players mugging Ohio State's Luke Witte. On TV, no less.

During that second judicial incident, Big Ten counsel Byron Gregory approached the bench to offer, "Your honor, it'll be a sad commentary indeed if we have to build every basketball court next to a district court."

And so goes the NCAA which since 1971-72 has spent more than $1.1 million in legal fees. Half that amount directly covered court cases.

Now, we give you plaintiff University of Alabama and defendant NCAA, an entirely new case which receives its first hearing Friday in Tuscaloosa (Ala.) Circuit Court.

The Crimson Tide school of Paul "Bear" Bryant, a venerable coach who almost never wins on New Year's Day, seeks an injunction which would prevent the NCAA from imposing 48-man road and 60-man home game maximums for varsity football.

It's the most controversial of numerous items which passed at the recent special NCAA cost cutting conference in Chicago.

And the final word hasn't been heard on that issue. Flare-ups are expected at the NCAA's regularly scheduled January meeting in St. Louis.

But Alabama vs. the NCAA is a case different from all the rest. It threatens the very existence of a strong and viable NCAA. It is Big Football trying to administer the Big Clamp.

Alabama's suit says the NCAA restriction unlawfully breaks existing contract rights between school and player.

That means Bryant wants to continue dressing his 100 players at home and 70 or 80 on the road. Alabama wants to be somebody special. To hell with everyone else.

Boyd McWhorter, commissioner for the Southeast Conference of which Alabama is a member, last week said a movement may be undertaken to lead major college football schools away from the NCAA. Bryant, who reportedly did not attend the Chicago conference, said the same thing.

Well . . . those men are entitled to their opinion. But Bryant, McWhorter and their little circle of friends may be surprised to discover not everyone sympathizes with their legal suit.

Two men who don't are Illinois football coach Bob Blackman and Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke.

Blackman allowed that the 48 and 60-man rosters might be "false economies." That there may be other areas in which costs can be more efficiently reduced.

"Like Bear Bryant, I'd like to take more football players on trips and suit up more at home," Blackman said Tuesday afternoon.

"But the basis of a democracy is majority rules. It's not much of a democracy if the first time the majority goes against your wishes you file a suit or quit and go home."

Duke dismissed the Alabama suit as virtually irresponsible action. "This proposed legislation was in the hands of NCAA representatives since the economy meeting which was held back in April (in Kansas City)," said the Big Ten commissioner.

"There have been many opportunities to discuss it at both the institutional and national levels.

"For an institution or individual to file a lawsuit after having the oppor-

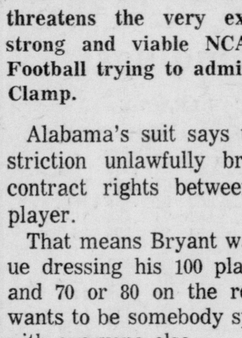
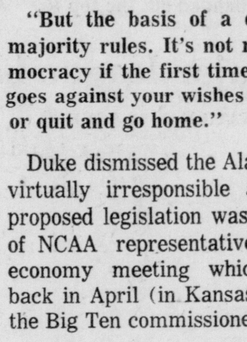
CUTTING COUGAR. Conant High School's varsity football team scrimmages earlier this week. The Cougars will be hoping to get off to a fast start this fall under new head coach John Ayres. Their home opener will be against Buffalo Grove.

Conant's athletic director to help honor Len Rohde



Len Rohde



Charlie Feutz

Len Rohde, who starred for Palatine over 20 years ago, is going to receive a special honor next week. And on hand to present the award will be his high school coach, Charlie Feutz.

Rohde, a 16-year 49er veteran in the National Football League, will be receiving the Len Eshmont Memorial Award at a banquet in San Francisco next Tuesday.

Y.A. Tittle, one of the all-time great quarterbacks in the NFL, received the first award in 1957. Since then such stars as John Brodie, Charlie Krueger, John David Crow and Leo Nomellini have been honored as players that best exemplify the character of Eshmont, who played for the 49ers from 1946-49.

Feutz was Palatine's head football coach when Rohde played prep ball. Rohde was a standout on the gridiron as well as in wrestling and track and field. He won state titles in both the shot put and the heavyweight mat division.

Now the athletic director at Conant High School in Hoffman Estates, Feutz and his wife, Jackie, will be flown out to San Francisco for the banquet honoring this veteran offensive tackle. Rohde holds the record for most games played at that position.

FLYING ROSE. Cincinnati's Pete Rose tries to nail Cubs' Rick Monday (7) at third base in fifth inning Tuesday. Monday rounded the bag on Bill Madlock's double but got back ahead of Rose's desperate attempt. Reds won 6-5.

Cubs fall in 9th

Joe Morgan's bases loaded single off first baseman Andy Thornton's glove with two outs in the ninth Tuesday scored pinch runner Dave Concepcion and Pete Rose to give the Cincinati Reds a come-from-behind 6-5 win over the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field.

Pinch hitter Terry Crowley started the Reds' ninth inning attack with a single after two out and Concepcion ran for him. Rose walked and Ken Griffey beat out a single to second baseman Manny Trillo to fill the bases. Morgan then hammered a liner which Thornton couldn't field and the ball bounced into the coachers' box near first base as he tried vainly to field it.

The hit came on a 3-2 pitch and the runners were off when pitcher Steve Stone delivered the ball with both Concepcion and Rose scoring easily.

The outburst produced a win for Reds' hurler Rawly Eastwick, his third against two losses, on a two-inning performance, while Stone took his seventh loss against 11 victories.

The Cubs got off to a 4-0 lead when Jerry Morales and Thornton delivered back-to-back home runs in the first inning and boosted the margin to 5-2 on a walk, Bill Madlock's double, and an infield out for a run in the fifth.

Madlock was 1-for-4 as his league-leading batting average slipped a point to .360.

Oklahoma tops grid poll

Oklahoma's Sooners, unbeaten, unranked and unrecognized a year ago because of an NCAA probation, have received a ringing endorsement from the United Press International Board of Coaches, being named overwhelming pre-season choice as the nation's No. 1 ranked college football team.

In officially welcoming Oklahoma back to the fold, the coaches gave the probation-free Sooners 24 first place votes and a wide 50-point margin (320-270) over second ranked Alabama which had 270 points and four No. 1 votes.

The NCAA lifted Oklahoma's probation prior to the 1975 season, but will not allow them to appear on national television until the Bowl Games.

Ohio State, ranked third with 268 points, had the next highest total of first place votes (6), while Southern California, the coaches' unanimous choice for the national championship last year, fell to fourth in the '75 pre-season vote with 254 points and only one first place nod.

Michigan, which gathered in the remaining two first place votes cast, was fifth with 247 points, followed by Auburn (113), Nebraska (107), Notre Dame (106), Penn State (101) and Texas A&M (94) which rounded out the top 10.

Vote for Hall of Famers now

Baseball is missing the boat, says Frank Lane, and as usual, he's right.

He's talking about the system of electing players to the Hall of Fame, and about the rap former Cleveland outfielder Earl Averill took at that system during his induction into the shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y., last week. Voted in by the special Veterans' Committee, Averill, 73, was appropriately grateful, but he also was angry over having to wait 34 years. He said there were countless others like him being passed over in favor of Johnny-come-latelies.

Frank Lane says Earl Averill is 100 per cent right. What's more he has an idea which he feels would rectify all that and benefit the players, the fans and baseball at the same time.

From Dallas, where he's scouting American League clubs for the California Angels, accumulating information so he can relay it along to club boss Harry Dalton for future player deals, Frank Lane was so enthusiastic about his idea, he sounded as if he was going to jump right through the telephone.

"My idea is to designate certain established stars as Hall of Fame nominees while they're still playing," said Lane. "In other words, each year the baseball writers would vote for certain players who in their judgment were Hall of Fame 'Nominees.' No. player would be eligible for nomination unless he had at least 10 years in the majors. And after a player was nominated, he'd automatically become eligible to be voted into the Hall of Fame itself three days after he officially retired as a player.

"These players not only would have the distinction of putting in their last few years as official Hall of Fame nominees, but the fans would have the added enjoyment of being able to see them while they're still playing and knowing beforehand they were headed for the Hall of Fame. Think of the advantage — to the players, to the fans and to baseball.

"If the player did something in his last few years to disqualify him from being elected, then the writers needn't automatically vote him in after he was finished. In that way, there would be no shoo-ins, and nobody could sneak in, either."

Frank Lane was just getting warmed up.

"Earl Averill was absolutely right, and I take my hat off to him for saying what he did up there in Cooperstown," said Lane. "He was a legitimate Hall of Famer. He had all the credentials. Why should he have been forced to wait more than 30 years to get in?

"I believe in flowers for the living. Why do they have to wait for a man to die and then put flowers on his grave? You can't smell 'em after you're dead. Under the present voting rules, a Hall of Fame candidate can't be considered until he has been out of baseball five years, but why should that be?

"The game should promote its players while they're actually playing, not after they're all through. Sure the writers do the actual voting, but what's wrong with them accepting a suggestion. Even from someone in baseball. I think baseball missed the boat by not thinking of something like this before. Baseball is always talking about the need for added promotion."

Frank Lane makes a good point.

Everybody, no matter whether he's a ballplayer or not, appreciates recognition and there's no question it's always appreciated far more by the recipient while he's still is active rather than after he retires. I believe the fans would go for Lane's idea. Part of baseball's appeal is its history, and what gives the average fan more of a kick than to be able to say he's seeing history in the making?

Probably no man in baseball has made more trades than Frank Lane during his time as general manager of the Chicago White Sox, Cleveland Indians, St. Louis Cardinals, Kansas City A's and Milwaukee Brewers. A septuagenarian now, Lane rates consideration as a Hall of Famer in his own right, but like everyone else, he has his own candidates. Two in fact, Larry MacPhail and Jimmie Dykes.

"Larry MacPhail introduced night baseball and was an innovator in the truest sense of the word," said Lane. "If he doesn't belong in the Hall of Fame, then no one does. And I think it's a crime Jimmie Dykes isn't in it. Look up his record. He played 22 years; had a solid .280 lifetime batting average; hit .421 in the 1929 World Series to lead the Philadelphia A's to a world championship and managed capably for more than 20 years after he was finished playing.

"As Earl Averill says — what does a guy have to do to get in? I'd like to see Jimmie receive the honor while he's still living. No one would appreciate it more than him; no one deserves it more."

ber of people involved in this," Barna said. "The cooperation was fantastic.

"The whole experience was good for the boys," Barna continued. "They got to do a little sightseeing, play some ball, and meet some people. I'm sure that someday these kids will look back on this as a great experience. And in the future, when people are in a position to need help, these are the kids who will lend a helping hand."

Tips to avoid getting your bike ripped off

(One in a series.)

by RICHARD BALLANTINE

The figures on stolen bakes are impressive. As near As I can figure out, about 20 per cent of the bikes in use at any goven moment will be ripped off within a year.

There is nothing like this problem in most other major civilized countries. Here, by way of contrast, theft is so common that the police don't even notice it.

The point is, you are bucking a stacked deck and can expect little help. You have to rely almost entirely on out-thinking the opposition, and on the strength of your locking system. Unfortunately there is no such thing as a foolproof system.

When locking your bike on the street you must:

• Use a case-hardened chain and padlock. If your bike store does not carry case-hardened chain, find a chain store in the yellow pages. Expect to pay about $20-$25. You have no alternative. A convenient way to carry the chain is encased in an old tire tube and wrapped around the seat post with the padlock clipped to the back of the saddle.

• Lock your bike to seriously immovable objects like lamp-posts, parking signs, heavy fences, ect.

• Run the chain through the frame and back wheel. Take the front wheel away with you if you can, or run the chain through it too.

• Be very selective about where and when you lock the bike. Slum neighborhoods are a bad bet at any time. Even if the bike itself is not ripped off, kids will often strip away the seat, handlebars, brakes, etc. Business and industrial districts are OK during the day. Always try to pick a busy, well-illuminated spot.

• Try to enlist help. The cashier for a movie theater will usually keep an eye on your bike. Newsdealers and other merchants will often help, and particularly if you do business with them.

tunity to evaluate in another manner is incongruous," said Duke.

Duke said that his Monday discussion with Big Eight Commissioner Chuck Neinas produced the suspicion that Alabama's suit won't hold much weight in court.

The NCAA considers it such a marginal menace that Executive Director Walter Byers likely won't attend the Friday hearing.

Warren Brown, an NCAA assistant executive director, said he'll probably make the journey from Shawnee Mission, Kan. If, indeed, anyone goes.

The only person I found who'd sit in Alabama's corner is Chicago sports attorney Arthur Morse. The suit is valid, he said, because you cannot legislate existing contracts out of existence.

But wait-a-minute, Arthur. Nobody said anything about removing scholarships from athletes. And since when should any coach guarantee any athlete a shot at playing on Saturday afternoon?

Sure, there will be problems with 48-man road rosters which are usually submitted by Thursdays. But the problem should be only one of adjustment, fitting within a new set of rules.

Nobody set out to get Alabama. But the Crimson Tide people apparently don't agree. So they've sued. Isn't that just ducky.

If Bryant and Corps are angry now, I'd like to see how they'd react under stringent new regulations which have been imposed upon many minor sports.

May I wish Bryant and Alabama the best of luck on Friday. Just the same kind they've enjoyed recently on New Year's Day.

Old Orchard Scratch jockeys for position

Miles & Miles made another move towards contention with a six-point victory over Team No. 2 in the Old Orchard Scratch League. Ralph Ganzer was low with a 36 for Miles & Miles followed by teammate Bob Altergott with a 37. Low for Team No. 2 was Bill Kleiner's 40.

Bob Burrows Chevy picked up 5½ points and held a slim chance at finishing in third place. Mike Graft (36) was low for Burrows followed by Cal Meyers who had a 38. Bruno Waara was low for the losing Baird & Warner team with a 36.

CP Floors continued with a solid 5½ point victory over Hussissian & Associates. Bob Kronn was low for CP with a 35 followed by Bob Lee's 38. Don Hager of Hussissian was low with a 37.

Sauganash Corp. won four points from league-leading Bentley Barnes & Lynn, but the latter still holds a three-point lead over second place CP Floors. Wally Lasher (36) defeated Marty Kolar (38) while George Johnson (37) of BBL defeated Bill Hugo (37) of Sauganash.

Titleist Gof Balls were awarded for closest to the pin on the four par 3 holes. The winners were Mike Graft, Bob Kronn, Ralph Ganzer and Tom Wallace.

The league will finish with a final position round with first and third places still undecided.

Bankers earn league golf title

Harold Voigt notched birdies on holes one and seven while Len Franklin connected on number 3. Franklin captured low gross with a 39 followed by Ed Nixon's 41 and Busch' 42.

Low netters were Harold Peterson's 27, Milt Koehler's 31, Franklin's 32 and Voigt's 31.

Rolling Meadows sets intrasquad

Rolling Meadows High School will celebrate the opening of the 1975 football season with its 5th annual Purple and White Football Night, Friday, Aug. 29.

Admission is free for anyone interested in watching the freshmen participate at 6 p.m., the sophomores at 7 p.m. and the varsity and jayvee levels at 8 p.m. on the Rolling Meadows varsity gridiron.

Honorary coaches for the contest will be Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer and the high school's principal Robert Hoese.

Rogosch cards ace

Jackie Rogosch lofted the ball from the seventh hole at Mount Prospect Country Club with her usual nine iron. By the time the ball came to rest on the two-layered, 145-yard hole, it was nestled in the bottom of the cup for a hole-in-one.

The Mt. Prospect resident was playing with Cathy Peterson and Doug Duncan as partners in a golf league last week.

Practice makes perfect

The first of seven gold medals won by Mark Spitz in Munich in the 1972 Olympics was, ironically, in the 200-meter butterfly, an event in which he finished last only four years before at the Olympic Games in Mexico.

Detroit in year of 'transition'

Few styles changes made for 1976 automobiles

DETROIT (UPI) — In late summer Detroit's auto men roll out their new models, extolling how great the cars are and how well they'll sell. Then they hope the following year proves them right.

For two straight years, they've been wrong. There is little evidence to suggest they'll be much closer to the truth this time around.

For 1976, a year that begins in October in Detroit, there's really nothing new to sell, higher prices on what there is to sell and a reluctance on the part of many Americans to part with even the down payment on a new car.

One industry executive recently complained in a statement that was made only partly in jest that what the American car buyer wants is a big Cadillac with mileage as good as a Honda and a price tag like a Pinto.

Except for a warmed-over, Americanized version of a car General Motors has been selling for years overseas and two luxury compacts from Chrysler — the Plymouth Volare and Dodge Aspen — that look very much like two GM compacts, you've already seen all there is to see for '76.

GM does have its Chevette, smaller than anything now built in the United States. If GM can't coax 40 miles per gallon out of the minicar, equip it adequately and still keep the price tag around the $2,850, it could be another bomb.

The industry giant has already learned that lesson with its Chevrolet Monza, everybody's choice as the sharpest new car out in the 1975 model year.

It was small, got decent fuel economy and appeared targeted for just the right time. Except it didn't sell too well, not until GM began offering $500 cash rebates and a lower-priced, less-stylish Towne Coupe model.

The Towne Coupe has accounted for 30 per cent of the 70,533 Monzas sold since last October and it's only been on the market since May.

Altogether, the Monza and its look-alike cousins, the Buick Skyhawk and Oldsmobile Starfire, have accounted for about 121,000 sales through July. The less attractive and smaller Chevrolet Vega has sold 190,736 cars in the same period.

Just for the record, there is another new car besides the Chevette and the two Chrysler offerings. It's the Pontiac Sunbird, a Monza Towne Coupe copycat.

If there's really nothing new to excite prospective customers, and there have to be a lot of them because everyone who already owns a car has a vehicle that deteriorates rapidly and has to be replaced, 1977 and 1978 will be a different story.

That's when the new, smaller standard sized cars will hit the market with lighter bodies and more fuel-efficient engines. Those are the cars Detroit is counting on to give Americans a combination of size, luxury and fuel economy they can't get in subcompacts and smaller models.

Many executives are admitting, at least privately if not in their public statements, that '76 is a "transition" year, a period between recession and full economic recovery and between the old cars and the fuel-efficient models that will take the industry into the 1980s.

One thing that could overcome Detroit's higher prices and lack of exciting new products is that elusive quality called consumer confidence. Confidence in the economy, jobs and things in general seems to be improving, but probably not quickly enough.

Jay W. Schmiedeskamp has been measuring consumer attitudes at the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center since 1971. He says consumer confidence has turned sharply upward since the beginning of the year but that recovery may be somewhat slow because the financial situation of many families has deterioriated substantially over a period of years.

Which leaves the most important factor in the auto industry's hoped-for recovery — prices.

Price hikes are inevitable but Detroit doesn't want to scare everyone away like they did last fall with $400 increases on top of $600 boosts the previous year.

With most executives talking about increases in the $300 range this fall, GM said it was only boosting the base price of their cars by 4.4 per cent — just over $200 a car.

What GM did, basically, is remove some standard equipment from the cars, raise the price of options and cut into the dealer's profit margin. That means the base car will be cheaper but the popular options will cost more and the dealer will not be as willing to knock a few more dollars off the sticker price. The average customer still is going to come out paying about $300 more for a car.

Even if introductory price hikes are kept down, there's a solid chance of further increases before the end of the year.

Steel prices are already up or going up about $35 on the average mid-sized car and aluminum and rubber prices are rising. Those are the three key ingredients in the building of any automobile along with wages, which also are moving up.

The automakers have been trying to replace as much steel as possible with lighter-weight materials to cut down on weight and save fuel. Aluminum and plastics are the two key weight-savers and prices of these materials appear to be on a steeper upward price curve than even steel.

What that means to the average family looking to trade in a three-or four-year-old car for a new model is monthly car payments of $140 — a high bill to fit into the budget.

A good many families may just say, "Wait 'til next year."

'Reconstruction of human life' campaign begins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In case you hadn't noticed, the United States is in the midst of a campaign "for the reconstruction of human life on this planet."

The gentle Baha'i faith, one of America's oldest "new" religions, is marking its 50th anniversary in the United States by trying to "build a community more or less from scratch in which children are free from prejudice."

The Baha'is follow the teachings of the Persian prophet Baha'u'llah, whom they revere as a latter-day version of Moses, Jesus Christ, Buddha, Mohammed and Krishna.

The Baha'i faith does not claim any exclusiveness for the prophet Baha'u'llah as a savior or messiah.

INSTEAD, ACCORDING to Dr. Daniel Jordan and Magdalene Carney, two members of the faith's National Spiritual Assembly, Baha'i stresses the essential unity of all major religious prophets.

The exact number of Baha'is in the United States is unknown. There are about 1,000 local assemblies or congregations, with headquarters in Wilmette, and the goal of the anniversary campaign is 1,400 congregations by 1979.

The aim of the Baha'i faith, which stresses the wholeness of the human race, is the unity of all mankind in one social order. For that reason, much of the emphasis within the church is on eliminating prejudice, especially in children.

"There are hundreds and hundreds of Baha'i babies on the way," Jordan said.

Miss Carney said, "We work closely with children, including them in the family structure. Prejudice is passed on, especially through education, but we try to deal with the whole range of prejudice — religious, racial, economic.

"We see that the prophets are all one. Our children are raised to cherish Jesus, Mohammed, Buddha, and there is rejoicing at their names."

BAHA'IS BELIEVE in progressive revelation, or the idea that religion is the evolution of one central faith which shows up in various forms at different times in history.

The church also attempts to bridge the chasm between religion and science.

"Religion and science must go hand-in-hand," Jordan said. "Faith may transcend it, but it doesn't deny it."

The Baha'i faith began in the mid-19th Century when Baha-'u'llah, son of a wealthy Persian nobleman, attracted a wide following as self-proclaimed successor to earlier religious prophets, including Mohammed.

An embarrassment to Turkish authorities, Baha'u'llah was shifted from jail to jail for years before he was finally released. He died in 1892 at age 75.

DURING HIS 40 years of imprisonment and exile, the prophet wrote 100 books and pamphlets which form the basis of the Baha'i faith.

Baha'u'llah's teachings were carried to the Western world by his son, who as early as 1912 defined race as America's primary spiritual problem.

He urged whites and blacks to join in a single spiritual assembly, and to "put such love into their hearts that they shall not only unite but even intermarry."

"Prejudice," Jordan said, "is still the chief force that inhibits unity."

Baha'is are not liturgy minded. The church has no priesthood. Religious services are based on readings from the prophets instead of sermons. "We are essentially a cheerful, optimistic bunch of people," Miss Carney said.

SOME DETRACTORS say the Baha'is are naive in their strong belief in the United Nations and their near-pacifist view that "war is ruinous."

"We don't want to be naive," Jordan said. "We just want to be uncorruptible." He stresses the importance of the local assembly, "a sensitized community" where the church's programs are carried out.

"The most pervasive thing in the world is change itself," Miss Carney said. "What we make of ourselves is largely of our own volition," Jordan said.

The Baha'is plan to be more visible in the coming months, spreading the gospel of unity and preparing the way for perhaps a prophet of the 21st or 22nd century who will bring that unity even closer.

Prison paper keeps inmates up on the news

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — The whisper of paper being grabbed by the hungry printing press and the satisfied slap of each new issue of The Echo falling neatly into place always brings a smile to the face of No. 213519.

He is prison editor Benjamin Lach, responsible for keeping 17,700 inmates of the sprawling Texas Dept. of Corrections informed of what's happening in their world of walls and bars.

Lach, a newcomer to newspapering, has assumed the mantle of editor enthusiastically.

"IT'S A SENSITIVE job weighing the importance of editorial matters," he said. "It enables me to express views, opinions and happenings behind the walls. I'm fair to the inmates and everyone else. But I do get negative reports."

A team of inmate reporters from the various units submit copy to Lach for editing. It then is laid out, proofed and produced by inmates working in the print shop inside the 43-acre compound known as The Walls near downtown Huntsville.

Lach was appointed to the job of editor six months ago by the prison administration. The paper is considered a house organ by the administration and internal issues considered

New U.S. map shows nuclear death, destruction areas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new map of the United States prepared by the Pentagon is a chilling, state-by-state atlas of the death and destruction Americans can expect in the event of nuclear war or "accidental" attack.

Red splotches indicate high-risk areas subject to direct nuclear attack. Green areas, some encompassing as many as three entire states, show where radioactive fallout is likely. And there are no-win regions where both direct impact and fallout could be expected.

There are tables showing how many people risk being killed in any particular part of the country if they are not evacuated or otherwise protected from a nuclear blast.

The revised "high Risk Areas" atlas was published in April by the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency to help state and local officials make shelter and mass evaucation plans. It reflects not only official U.S. assumptions about likely American targets but the best intelligence estimates of Soviet targeting.

THE AGENCY'S critics say the reasons behind the book make no sense, and actually increase the risk of nuclear war.

"This new emphasis on civil defense is simply the most visible aspect of the Pentagon's new counterforce policy," said retired Rear Adm. Gene La Rocque, referring to the concept of a selective attack wiping out a Soviet nuclear missile site or other strategic offensive targets.

La Rocque cited recent remakrs by Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger and Defense Sec. James R. Schlesinger that first use of American nuclear weapons against the Soviet Union has never been ruled out in U.S. strategic planning.

Kissinge and Schlesinger were not talking about a preemptive "first stike" but the possibility of being the first to use nuclear weapons in a controled action against military targets during an escalating conventional war or threat of war.

"If you want to make nuclear wars fightable, as the secretary of defense seems to want to do, then it makes sense to have a big civil defense program like 'crisis relocation,'" La Rocque said.

"THE ADMINISTRATION is engaged in an effort to make nuclear war reasonable and acceptable," he added. "If this country accepts a counterforce strategy it will be taking a big step toward removing the firebreak between nuclear and conventional warfare."

Civil defense planners respond that prudence demands the United States be prepared for nuclear war and take advance precautions to save millions of lives.

"We're not asking people to start running for the bomb shelters and we're not trying to scare anyone," one official said.

The agency laments the loss of the urgency and credibility that civil defense enjoyed in the early 1960s, and argues that while Soviet tactics have changed in an era of detente, the world Communist goals remain the same.

The Defense Civil Preparedness Agency, headed by former Gov. John E. Davis of North Dakota, keeps a low profile. It has been working for years with state and local authorities to designate fallout shelters, and is now proceeding quietly on plans for mass evacuation of whole and other likely target areas in event of a major international crisis or imminent war.

PRESENTING HIS $88 million budget to Congress in April, Davis said, "Reducing the vulnerability of our people to the effects of nuclear attack can help deter war by providing our leaders with additional strategic options to resolve a crisis before it escalates to military action. We must modify our civil defense program as strategic requirments change."

His state-by-state atlas is part of the plan. High-risk areas include U.S. military installations and surrounding populations and, generally, industrial areas and cities of 50,000 or more.

Listed among prime "counterforce targets" are such Air Force bases as Loring in Maine; Westover in Massachusetts; McGuir in New Jersey; Plattsburg and Griffis in New York; Homestead, McDill and McCoy in Florida; Warner-Robins in Georgia; Grissom in Indiana; Little Rock, Ark.; five prime and 13 secondary bases in Texas, and five in California.

There's not a 100 per cent safe state in the country.

Aside from outright aggression, civil defense must consider the possibility of accidental or unauthorized use of nuclear weapons.

DAVIS CITES warnings by "highly competent authorities" that proliferation of nuclear technology and fissionable material carries the threat that terrorists or small nations might secretly build weapons for use as nuclear blackmail.

"Civil defense would be more effective in saving lives than any other active or passive defense measures," Davis told Congress.

He said his agency is moving beyond the basic fallout shelter tactic to "crisis relocation planning," which means evacuation of millions of Americans from high risk areas to shelter in safer surrounding sites, including mines and caves, "in moments of acute international tension."

Davis says relocation is itself a weapon. "If the Soviets, for example, should execute evacuation plans, which they have been developing for many years, it would be desirable for the U.S. to have that ability to counter this action by evacuating our high-risk areas," he said.

Dealers nix counteroffer by striking car mechanics

A counter offer of a new contract made by Local 701 of the International Assn. of Machinists has failed to raise hopes of a settlement in the eight-week strike against Chicago area car dealers.

Several suburban auto dealer representatives and Local 701 members indicated Tuesday there is no immediate prospect of an end to the work stoppage by some 4,000 mechanics that began July 2. The workers' contract expired June 30.

"It's just as far away as it was when it started July 2," said Dale Bowes, a service representative at the Colonial Chevrolet dealership in Schaumburg. Twenty-two bargaining sessions between representatives of the Employers Assn. of Greater Chicago and Local 701 have been unable to produce a new contract agreement.

THE PROPOSAL approved Friday by Local 701 membership was presented to the employers association, representing new car dealers. It includes a package of wage and fringe benefits, and provision for the "50-50 split."

The split allows a mechanic to share the service fee for work that is in addition to 40 hours work in one week. The dealers' proposal to eliminate the split is among major contract issues.

Union members rejected an earlier contract proposal by the employers' association. The contract would have increased hourly wages and fringe benefits, and eliminated the service fee split.

More than 80 of the 281 Chicago area new car dealers continue to employ mechanics under terms of the contract which expired in June, said a representative of Local 701. The workers will be paid retroactive to July 1 under the terms of any new agreement.

No comment was available from the employers' association on the contract issues.

Rustlin'

The 100-year-old problem still plagues Wyoming ranchers who have hired range detectives to keep their herds together

KAYCEE, Wyo. (UPI) — Rustlers have prowled the rolling grasslands of Wyoming's Johnson County for 100 years, glancing over their shoulders for the sheriff as they herded someone else's steers into box canyons.

And the rustlers are still around.

In the old days, ranchers often took to protecting their stock themselves, including such drastic action as in the Johnson County War of 1892 when 25 cattlemen, along with 25 hired Texas gunmen, set out to stop rustling.

THE BAND started out to gun down 20 known rustlers, but killed only two before they were challenged by 200 men led by Sheriff Red Angus. Federal troops intervened before anyone else was killed in northeastern Wyoming.

Rustling is still such a problem today that angry ranchers have hired a range detective to patrol their spreads day and night, stopping anyone who so much as looks at a steer the wrong way.

Harold Jarrad of the Powder River Protective Assn. said his group has followed the example of a similar organization of ranchers near Lusk in eastern Wyoming who hired Ed Cantrell, a former highway patrolman, to ride their range.

"The protection association around Lusk has almost completely eliminated the problem," said Dean Prosser, executive director of the Wyoming Stockgrowers Assn. "We encourage this type of thing and work with them."

CANTRELL HAS been watching over herds of eastern Wyoming ranchers for more than three years. He's close-mouthed about his work, like the other two private range agents in the state, but Cantrell says his investigations have led sheriff's officers to several arrests.

"It's been successful, there's no question about it," he said. "The situation has improved and livestock disappearance is down considerably."

Jarrad said Johnson County ranchers lot 300 head of cattle to rustlers using pickup trucks during three months of last fall, and they feel that's about enough.

"Rustlers have got these trailers that haul 15 or 16 head of cattle on a pickup truck," he said. "They throw up a little fence to herd the cattle in, load 'em and go."

JIM ZIMMERSCHIED, a former deputy sheriff and brand inspector hired to protect the association ranchers from rustlers, isn't talking about his work, but Jarrad said Zimmerschied would be on 24-hour call.

"He patrols the range any and all times of the day and night," Jarrad said. "He's apt to be anyplace, anytime, 'cause you can bet those rustlers never quit."

The most experienced range detective in Wyoming is Dale Cunningham, who has worked for the Padlock Ranch in Sheridan County nine years.

HIS BOSS, Dan Scott, said he knows of no one who's been at it longer than Cunningham.

"Rustling isn't dead in our area," Scott said. "Our neighbors have had stock stolen, and a few rustlers have been caught recently, but the percentage has been much less."

Prosser said over-all the rustling situation in Wyoming is about the same as it always was.

"We've always had a certain amount of rustling in the state," he said. "With the horse trailers and enclosed pickups, we're kind of vulnerable, but we're not sure that evidence indicates it's any worse than in the last four or five years."

PROSSER SAID 150 brand inspectors, whose main job is checking stock for proof of ownership before they're moved, are scattered around the state. The inspectors have been used to apprehend rustlers in some areas, but they don't have the time to handle extra duties.

The association, along with four other groups, tried to encourage private citizens to help spot rustlers by awarding $1,700 to a Fremont County man who turned in two women for stealing a cow.

The women butchered a cow, threw a rope around the bumper of their car and dragged it 24 miles into the Missouri Valley near Riverton. Amateurish, yes, but Prosser said that's the form of most rustling.

"I'm inclined to believe that most cattle rustling in the state is not organized," he said. "I think most of it is done by amateurs, rather than professionals."

Prison paper keeps inmates up on the news

controversial are conspicuously absent.

"They don't call it censorship, but all copy has to be approved," Lach said.

Lach, 30, was a graduate assistant at Texas Tech University in Lubbock when he was convicted in 1970 of the murder of a cleaning woman in a campus building. His dreams of becoming a pediatrician vaporized when he was brought to Huntsville and sent to the fields as an inmate laborer, the most physically demanding and menial of tasks.

HIS YEAR IN the fields taught him a lot about himself and during his eight years confinement he has developed — as most inmates do — strong feelings about prison.

"The prison as we have it today is a university of crime," he said during an interview in the bullring, a lofty brass cage where inmates are allowed to visit in semi-private cubicles.

"People are negative when they come here. I feel through the publication of The Echo it will enhance the attitude of society of what prison life is like.

"It used to be prisons were a hole in the wall where you dumped people like garbage. But I think society doesn't realize the person who's temporarily out of their hair will be back.

"Eventually you know he's going back outside — why send him back with a negative attitude? Education is the answer — for inmates and society.

"Rehabilitation is not forced upon you here. It's something you have for your own use." Lach, who has earned a second degree while in prison, hopes to be paroled from his 40-year sentence and return to college for work in a doctorate in behavioral psychology.

"I've been through here and I've seen the life behind bars. My main regret is being here. I might as well make the most of it while I am here.

"I think I'm still fresh. Every day is a challenge to me. I enjoy going to work each day.

"As long as you have hope and are optimistic about the future, it keeps you going."

Merry Christmas—cost of stamps going to 13c

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dime stamps are going to 13 cents — possibly by Christmas — Postal Service and congressional sources said Tuesday.

The move would cost the public about $1.8 billion, since each penny increase in first-class mail rates costs about $600 million.

It also would save millions of dollars for newspaper and magazine publyishers, parcel post shippers and bulk mail advertisers. Their rates probably will increase too, but much less than if regular stamps stayed the same.

Sources said the U. S. Postal Rate Commission has acted to disapprove a recommendation by its administrative law judge, Seymour Wenner. He formally recommended last May that first-class mail rates be lowered to 8.5 cents per ounce.

Wenner said in effect that people who send ordinary letters subsidize bulk mailers by about two cents for each 10-cent stamp. He said bulk mailers should pay their own way but don't.

The timing of any increase in the price of a first-class stamp is up to the U. S. Postal Service.

Sees Yaqui Indian techniques

'Sorcery' makes him appear in dreams

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Using ancient sorcery techniques of Mexico's Yaqui Indians, a Los Angeles anthropolgist made himself appear in dreams three times to a series of people he did not even know during the past year, a British delegate told the World Sorcery Congress Tuesday.

Douglass R. Price-Williams, a Brisith anthropologist-psychologist and a lecturer at the University of California at Los Angeles, spoke to the congress on "Some Field Experiments in Sorcery."

"I don't know what's going on either," he said. "I wish someone would tell me. But presumably this is sorcery."

PRICE-WILLIAMS, 51, said the sorcerer in the experiment was a fellow anthropologist in Los Angeles, Carlos Castaneda, the author of a series of books on occult traits in the Yaqui Indians who inhabit the inhospitable northwestern region of Mexico.

Castaneda says in the books that he learned from an ancient Indian wizard he calls Don Juan that man has an "ally," a sort of alter ego which can be made the object of sorcery.

In March, 1974, again in October, 1974, and finally in March of 1975 Castaneda's alter ego or "ally" appeared in dreams to a number of people varying between five and eight whom he didn't even know but had asked him to select, Price-Williams said.

The alter ego is amorphous, meaning it doesn't have a definite shape, Price-Williams said, but appears to different people in different shapes.

However, the people in the first experiment all had visions of Castaneda himself, balding and abnormally thin, in dreams on the same night.

IN THE SECOND experiment, he said, a larger group of people who hadn't even been told that they had been selected to form part of the experiment all dreamed of fish, small furry animals or rodents hovering around them at about the same time.

"The probability of seven people selected at random within a short time span all having dreams about tiny animals has prohibitive odds against it," Price-Williams said.

"And there is no question of suggestion since the people hadn't even been told they were selected for the experiment."

In the third experiment, Casteneda admitted he had failed, that he couldn't transmit the dream he wanted to because strange blocks kept appearing. However, Price-Williams said one of his secretaries had exactly the same vison of the blocks appearing to frustrate Castaneda's plans.

The control group consisted of "sturdy" people not likely to be upset quickly, he said, and most were intellectuals in professions such as architecture or computer technology.

Plant cells 1st signs of earth life

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Holly Williams, age 11, of Gastonia, N.C., for her question:
WHAT WERE THE FIRST SIGNS OF LIFE ON EARTH?

Nobody knows exactly when the miracle of life first stirred on earth. But scientists have a good idea of what sort of living things there were and also where they appeared. Most experts suspect that the great adventure began more than 2 billion years ago, when the earth was about half its present age.

Imagine a world with one huge continent, where barren rocks were touched only by the weather. The ocean covered more than half of the surface, and its brimming fresh waters slopped over the shores. This is how things were when life began on earth. The sun shone, the rains descended and the stormy lightning flashed through the clouds.

The smallest unit of life is a living cell, too small for human eyes to see. Yet it is built from highly special molecules, endowed with the miraculous abilities to convert food into energy, to multiply and produce more units of life like itself. Compared with nonliving rocks, these qualities were miracles indeed.

Yet the living and nonliving substances were made from the selfsame chemical elements already present in the earth. All living cells, then and now, contain assorted protein molecules made mostly from common elements such as carbon and hydrogen, nitrogen and oxygen. Each protein molecule is assembled from a large assortment of smaller chemical units called amino acids.

We assume that the first signs of life began with the formation of amino acids from simple chemicals in the ancient freshwater seas. Nobody knows how this was arranged or how long it took. Eventually certain amino acids were assembled to build protein molecules, and at long last assorted protein molecules were assembled to build cells.

Then the true magic began. For the living cells were not entirely dependent upon chancy chemical activities. They could consume raw material and produce their own energy — and multiply themselves. Most experts agree that the very first forms of life were plant cells, probably quite similar to the blue-green algae that still teem in the global oceans.

Later, certain life forms specialized to form animal-type cells. All these mini cells were too small and frail to leave fossil remains. However, as they lived and died, they caused changes in the rocks. It is assumed that the earliest algae caused changes in certain carbonized rocks of Canada, Rhodesia and Austrlia.

Andy sends a seven-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Ed Dunn, age 10 of Phoenix, Ariz., for his question:
WHY DOES THE MOON GLOW DURING A LUNAR ECLIPSE?

During a solar eclipse, the glorious face of the sun is replaced by a jet black disk. It seems logical to expect a lunar eclipse to blot out the golden moon completely in the same way. But this does not happen. Actually, the full moon merely is eclipsed by the earth's shadow. This hazy shadow points like a long tapering finger from the night side of the earth, far out into space.

Once in a while, the orbiting moon passes through the earth's hazy shadow and we get a lunar eclipse. The moon's golden face is dimmed but not hidden. This is why the full moon continues to glow all through the lunar eclipse. During a solar eclipse, the sun is blotted out because the solid moon gets directly between us and the sun's dazzling face.

HOW TO GET BIG COMPANY BENEFITS WHEN YOU'RE NOT SO BIG.

EQUI-GROUP provides group health and life insurance plans like those offered by the big corporations. Even if your firm consists of just you and one other employee (who isn't your spouse), you could be eligible for a wide range of benefits. For example: Employee and dependent health-care. Weekly indemnity if you're sick or hurt and can't work. Coverage for accidental death or dismemberment. Life insurance, too, with options to buy more later, without a medical exam. And dental insurance, if a minimum of 10 employees participate.

So, if your company has two to 49 employees, mail the coupon. An Equitable Agent will give you full details on EQUI-GROUP.

Squeeze plus 3-3 break equals slam

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Here is a hand that decided an important team match some years ago. The contract was six spades at both tables and a heart was led to East's ace.

At one table a heart was led back. South discarded his seven of diamonds and proceeded to run off six trumps. At some stage West dropped the 10 of diamonds to wind up with all four of his clubs. Then when South came down to a two-card ending, he tried the diamond finesse and went down two.

At the other table East returned a diamond.

South was a mathematician and knew that a finesse represented a 50 per cent chance while a 3-3 club break occurred only 36 per cent of the time. Nevertheless, he went up with the ace of diamonds, played a couple trumps, discarded his seven of diamonds on dummy's good heart and ran the rest of the trumps. The four-card ending squeezed West who had to let his king of diamonds go to keep four clubs and the slam made.

South explained that the squeeze possibility added to the chance that clubs might break 3-3 came to well over 50 per cent but he had an extra reason for the play. He explained that East just hated to lead from kings.
